implications that the City of Yankton has in development, so it is always good to express the importance of that respective project and to demonstrate how it fits into the long-term development of the community.

"Additionally, we were able to meet with differing agencies at the federal level and have general discussions on these same issues," he continued. "We often find common areas of interest through these discussions. Being able to identify those interests and collaborate across agencies and government institutions should free up future opportunities to accomplish various projects."

Chamber President Steve Huff highlighted some of the important issues discussed in Washington. Conversations were had with Sens. Tim Johnson and John Thune, as well as Rep. Stephanie Herseth Sandlin, about the potential for getting a U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs facility in Yankton, possibly on the historic campus of the South Dakota Human Services Center (HSC) where buildings are available.

"The Yankton Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee is forming a task force to pursue opportunities for this in Yankton," Huff said. Congressional representatives were also informed of the concern that the downtown post office will be targeted for closure. Officials from the National Trust for Historic Preservation vowed to help Yankton officials fight that threat if it materializes.

Positive dialogue was also had with the National Trust about avenues to preserve the Mead building on the HSC campus, Huff said.

Furthermore, discussions were had with the National Park Service about potential funding sources and other methods for enhancing the Meridian Bridge and the connecting trail system along the Missouri River.

"(National Park Service officials) talked about partnerships," said Carmen Schramm, the Chamber's director of member services. "You've got to have partnerships, and not just normal partnerships, but unique partnerships."

Gross added that the delegation shared plans to expand the National Field Archery Association (NFAA) and Easton Sports Development facility with congressional members, as well as other economic development ideas and successes.

"Even if we don't have a specific need or issue today, we will in the future, and visiting the congressional delegation on their turf helps develop the relationships we may need at later dates for solving new problems or issues," he said.

Huff said his only disappointment during the trip was learning that the next major legislative action to come out of Congress will likely be financial reform.

"As it now stands, (the legislation) substantially burdens community banks like those in Yankton when real regulation is needed against the derivative markets, larger institutions and non-bank companies that caused the most recent recession," he stated.

Chamber members involved in the banking industry, including Lynn Peterson, Nate Franzen and Charlie Gross, shared their thoughts on the proposed reform with Herseth Sandlin, Johnson and Thune.

Huff had high praise for the way the Chamber delegation conducted itself while in Washington.

"I was immeasurably impressed by the way the city manager, city commissioners and Yankton Chamber of Commerce delegation attendees worked together to ensure Yankton and area business interests were fully and fairly pursued," he said.

Schramm said Yankton's commitment to going to Washington every year, often with the same faces, makes an impact.

"It's those faces (Washington officials are) seeing coming back and discussing issues. They know we're serious," she said. "They know Yankton has a plan, and hopefully we leave them thinking it's a good plan."

Union Pacific Profit Jumps As Demand Rises

BY JOSH FUNK
AP Business Writer

OMAHA, Neb. — Union Pacific said Thursday that stronger shipping demand drove the railroad's first-quarter profit 43 percent higher and suggested the economy is improving.

The Omaha, Neb.-based railroad said it earned net income of $516 million, or $1.01 per share, in the quarter. That's up from the $362 million, or 72 cents per share, Union Pacific generated last year during the Great Recession.

Union Pacific and the other major freight railroads offer some insight into the overall economy because of the volume of cars, chemicals, crops, lumber and containers of imported goods they carry hints at the health of those industries.

Union Pacific CEO Jim Young said he is feeling more optimistic about 2010, but he cautioned that it is still early in the recovery and he did not provide specific earnings guidance.

"It looks like the strength we saw in the first quarter is continuing, but you have to be careful," Young said.

Young said he won't feel confident about the economic rebound until he sees more companies start hiring more workers. But he said it was encouraging to see demand increase for industrial products like lumber for the first time in two years.

Overall, UP hauled 13 percent more carloads during the quarter, and demand was up in every sector except coal. But revenue improved in every one of Union Pacific's six divisions even though the number of coal carloads declined 1 percent.

Union Pacific said its revenue grew 16 percent to nearly $4 billion.

BMO Capital Markets analyst Randy Cousins said Union Pacific's earnings offered encouraging news about the economy.

"We're not back to 2008 levels, but we're certainly headed in the right direction," Cousins said.

The railroad's results beat Wall Street expectations even though the quarter included a one-time expense of $45 million related to a restructuring of a shipping contract between Union Pacific and CSX railroads. Analysts surveyed by Thomson Reuters expected Union Pacific to report quarterly earnings of 94 cents per share on $3.81 billion revenue.

UP's closed down 78 cents at $76.25. Earlier in the day, the stock traded at a 52-week high of $78.03.

Union Pacific is the nation's largest railroad with 32,400 miles of track crossing 23 states from the Midwest to the West and Gulf coasts. But UP is handling only about 170,000 carloads a week — well below its capacity of about 200,000 carloadings a week — because of the weak economy, and about 2,800 employees remain furloughed.

Young said he hopes to be able to rehire all those furloughed workers, but he doesn't know how quickly that might happen because the railroad won't start significant hiring until shipping volume improves more.

JPMorgan analyst Thomas Wadewitz praised Union Pacific during the company's conference call for the railroad's efforts to control costs.

"Great performance on the cost side. Very impressive," Wadewitz said.

Through furloughs and other measures, UP reduced its compensation expenses 1 percent during the quarter to $1.06 billion. Overall, the railroad's operating expenses grew 8 percent to $2.98 billion, but most of the increase was related to higher fuel prices.

Union Pacific's fuel costs jumped 51 percent to $583 million, as the average price per gallon of diesel climbed to $2.16 from last year's $1.51.

Blagojevich Asks Obama To Testify At His Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Illinois Gov. Rod Blagojevich's lawyers asked a federal judge on Thursday to issue a subpoena for President Barack Obama to testify as a witness at his corruption trial.

Blagojevich said in court papers filed by defense attorney Sam Adam that Obama would be able to resolve questions surrounding the government's allegation that the former governor sought to sell or trade the seat left vacant following the president's November 2008 election.

"President Barack Obama has direct knowledge of the Senate seat allegation," Blagojevich's 11-page motion filed with U.S. District Judge James B. Zagel said.

There was no allegation in the court papers of any wrongdoing on Obama's part.
