When juveniles are released from jail, it is into the care of a parent or guardian. It is the policy of the Press and Dakotan to publish all names made available in the police and court reports. There are no exceptions.

creation are my top priorities. I'm pleased that these two individuals have agreed to serve on the Board of Economic Development."

They will replace Jacquelyn Fuller of Lead and Van Fishback of Brookings, whose terms on the board expire later this month.

Daugaard also revealed that Jerry Prostrullo of Madison and Tom Burchill of Sioux Falls have been reappointed. Prostrullo will continue as chairman of the board.

Kettering said he had expressed an interest in being on the board to Lt. Gov. Matt Michels of Yankton.

"I know Matt Michels well," Kettering stated. "We've sat on boards together locally. Matt was aware of my capabilities and thought I may be able to serve in this manner. I hope that I can make him very proud."

Part of Kettering's experience at Farm Credit Services has been working out the details of challenging loans.

"It's brought a lot of experience in dealing with financial analysis and figuring out what it takes to make a business grow and prosper," he said.

That knowledge will come in handy because the board manages the Revolving Economic Development Initiative (REDI) fund, which provides low-interest loans to start-up businesses, expanding companies, relocating businesses and local economic development corporations.

Kettering is looking forward to attending his first meeting later this month.

"I hope that it gives us the opportunity to come together as a board to review opportunities to bring job creation into the state of South Dakota," he said.

This year, the club will be putting up more than 5,900 flags, each one representing one of the dead. Each day at 6 p.m., the club will honor its fallen brothers and sisters with a small ceremony where a few words will be said, and if a person or group would like to lay a wreath or flowers, it can be done at that time. Also at this time, the club will be adding additional flags for our heroes that have fallen, and need to be added to the memorial. The club will conclude the ceremony with the changing of the guard as the night sentry takes their watch, and Taps is played. The Veterans Club will also be honoring three USD alumni who have sacrificed their lives during the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan.
