For several years, the University of South Dakota has only sent a handful of athletes to the Sioux City (lowa) Relays track and field meet, which begins today (Friday). Often, its better athletes were headed to California for the Mt. SAC Relays or south to the Kansas Relays. Those meets aren't until next week this year, as the Sioux City schedule rolled back on the calendar before those meets did. And, instead of looking for bigger meets for one year, USD decided to send its full squad to Sioux City. The move to head to Sioux City rather than branch out to bigger meets elsewhere — even if the competition is not going to be what it would be elsewhere — makes sense for USD. First off, there are few bigger showcases for track and field in this region. More importantly, one of those showcases — the Howard Wood Dakota Relays — is off the books for this year due to renovations being done at Howard Wood Field. If you want to draw attention to your program, you have to compete — and preferably compete well — in a place where your fans can see you.

USD Sending Full Squad To Sioux City A Logical Move

Second, it is a great way to show your appreciation to assistant coach and former Coyote Derek Miles, who will be going into the meet's Hall of Fame this weekend.

Finally, you get to compete without having extra wear and tear on your athletes. A three-day meet in California takes five days out of training as the team is only a month away from the Summit League championships. It will be good to see the Covotes competing well close to home.

overall. The quality of program that Kinsley refers to is because of SDSU's third-place finish in the Summit League in this season's cross country conference meet. The women's team finished in fourth place at the Summit League meet. The track & field teams are in the middle of their season right

Yankton track & field head coach Luke Youmans spoke about the pair. "It has been fun to watch their progression through the years, Youmans said. "They have both always been athletically talented, but now they are some of the top competitors in the state.

Both Youmans and cross country head coach Dave Dannenbring spoke about the work ethic that Grossenburg and Kinsley have each displayed. "They are both very hard workers," Dannenbring said. "Hard work always works, and it always will. These two are perfect examples of Youmans spoke about the dedi-
