Congressional Art Competition Now Open To SD High School Students

WASHINGTON — Rep. Kristi Noem (R-S.D.) and the South Dakota Arts Council have announced the 2013 Congressional Art Competition, "An Artistic Discovery," has now started. South Dakota high school students may submit original artwork to Rep. Noem's office for the chance to have their work displayed in the Cannon Tunnel of the United States Capitol for one year. The winning artist will be invited to a reception highlighting their work in the United States Capitol and will meet other winners from across the country.

Each piece of art can be no larger than 28 inches x 28 inches x 4 inches, including the frame. Artwork cannot weigh more than 15 pounds. Accepted media for artwork are as follows:

• Collage

• Prints: lithographs, silkscreen, block prints

Prairie Bud And Prairie Pasque Winners Are Announced

VERMILLION —Students from grades K-5 recently voted for their favorite books during the 2012-2013 South Dakota Children's Book Awards competition.

Sponsored by the South Dakota Library Association, South Dakota Children's Book Awards encourage students in the elementary grades to read and vote for their favorite book of the year. The Prairie Bud Award is designed for students in grades K-2, while the Prairie Pasque Award is for grades 3-5. Both awards challenge students to read and vote for their favorite book from a list of nominated titles. Children who read at least five titles from the list for their grade level qualify to vote. Each award is given to the book receiving the most votes from students throughout the state.

Of the 32 books that were chosen by the SDLA committee, half represented the Prairie Bud Award, and the other half represented the Prairie Pasque Award.

Following are the results of the Prairie Bud/Prairie Pasque voting:

• Prairie Bud winner: "Even Monsters Need Haircuts" by Matthew McElligott

• Prairie Pasque winner: "Out of My Mind" by Sharon M. Draper

Eighty-three schools across the state participated in voting for the awards. At least 10,209 students in grades K-2 voted for a book nominated for this year's Prairie Bud Award, while 4,414 students in grades 3-5 took part in the Prairie Pasque Award voting.

More information about the awards and a complete list of nominees may be found on the SD State Library website, library.sd.gov.

ting his message out to younger crowds."

Audience participation plays a large role in Maher's performance, Yager said.

"From what I gather, Matt is very engaged with the crowd," Yager said. "On this tour, there will be a lot of his well-known songs along with new ones, and he will have stories throughout (the concert). He tries to get the audience involved with singing, or he will teach a verse or chorus."

The audience will also enjoy the opening acts, Yager predicted.

"Bellarive is a newer band. One of their big things recently, they led a youth worship inside of an abandoned parking ramp," the MMC events director said.

"The other artist is Chris August — he did 'Starry Night.' He used to work in the pop music industry and has come over to the Christian music side."

The Mount Marty concert will sell only general admission tickets, with no reserved seating, Yager said. Cimpl Arena offers good seating everywhere, and the change to general admission helps hold down ticket prices, he said.

Whereas the Newsboys used a large stage set-up, the "All The People Said Amen" tour features a smaller, more intimate setting, Yager said.

"We didn't get a VIP experience this time like we did with the Newsboys, but we are working on an opportunity for our students to meet the musicians," he said.

After working six years for the Sioux Falls Arena, Yager knows that timing — and luck — can play a major role in booking Maher and other artists.

MMC officials sought to book a concert last fall, but the popular tours filled up quickly, Yager said. He stepped back and looked at a spring concert, particularly musicians playing the Midwest with some open dates.

"We knew Matt (Maher) was coming out with a new CD, and he was doing a smaller tour this spring," Yager said. "We looked at the routings, and there were a couple days in his calendar where it would fit with our athletic calendar. Cimpl Arena was open toward the end of the semester, so it was a perfect storm."

As Maher would say, "AMEN!"

Tickets for the "All The People Said Amen" concert are on sale at www.itickets.com. For more information, contact events@mtmc.edu.

said. "Ronnie and I, we need a third hand."

If there were any doubts about the Stones' box office appeal half a century down the line, response to their hometown show July 6 at London's Hyde Park obliterated it. Even with seats costing up to $1,000, all 65,000 tickets were snapped up in five minutes.

Asked about the Hyde Park curfew that got the plug pulled on Bruce Springsteen's show there last summer, Jagger laughed. "They have a curfew everywhere. I can't believe they even have curfews on indoor shows.

"Some of it has to do with subway travel, and if your show runs over, people get stuck and can't get home, and that's not nice to the audience," he said. "To be honest, they have very strict curfews a lot of places in Europe. There's a rigid curfew at Wembley Stadium that we've run into before. But Hyde Park is right in the middle of town, and you've got a lot of moanie people around you."

As for the Stones' ultimate legacy, Jagger says he got his fill of reflection last year putting together the "Crossfire Hurricane" documentary on HBO, and Richards is more than content to leave history to sort itself out. "The weak will fall by the wayside and the good ones will always be remembered," Richards said. "A lot of guys get up there because they want to play for the people; it's up to the people whether they want those guys to stick around or not.

"We have several generations behind us now, which is quite amazing, and maybe well worth me remembering to say when I reach the gates of purgatory."
