City Council Approves USD Tax Rebates

BY SHAUNA MARLETTE
shauna.marlette@plaintalk.net

The partnership between the City of Vermillion and the University of South Dakota (USD) continues to grow, this time, with a rebate of up to $700,000 of sales tax expenditures on the new arena, science, health and research lab and track and soccer complex.

USD is investing more than $66 million, plus $18.5 million of financing costs, to construct these capital improvements.

Sheila Gestring, vice president of financing for USD, said the rebates will be recouped through city-wide economic development spurred by the new facilities.

The agreement sought by USD is similar to one between the City of Vermillion and Polaris, which saw the city rebate approximately $340,000 to Polaris for their new $10.4 million conveyor system project. The program is also in line with how the Governor's Office of Economic Development operates sales and use tax rebate awards on the state level.

As the invoices for eligible purchases are received by USD, copies will be given to the Vermillion Area Chamber & Development Company (VCDC) to verify that the local sales and use tax has been paid by the vendor credited to the City of Vermillion. The City will then refund the payment of the local sales and use tax paid on eligible items to VCDC to distribute the funds to USD.

According to the agreement, the city will have 45 days from the end of each quarter to complete reimbursement with all purchases to be made through January 1 and September 30, 2017.

"I think the fate of the University and the fate of the City are intertwined. I always have," said USD president James Abbot. "I think it is important to note, we are asking you to funnel the dollars the city is receiving, because of the construction, back to the University so we can make this project a reality."

Abbot said that USD, through the donation of alumni and friends of the university, as well as student support, has raised the great majority of the money needed to complete the project. However, he said that they are still trying to raise the final $5-7 million, which will be used for the extras.

"We started this project because we had to start at some point," he said. "This is important to our future for a lot of reasons, but more importantly it represents an important step forward. But, we are not going to be able to complete it the way we would like to complete it without raising another $5-7 million. We will have the basics, but we won't be able to do the extras, such as synthetic turf, which makes such a difference to everything we do on the soccer field. We probably wouldn't be able to do the concessions and bathrooms the way we would like to."

It was approved unanimously that the City would rebate a maximum of $700,000 to USD as part of a reinvestment program based on the local sales and use tax paid to Vermillion on qualifying construction costs.

"It is important to think about how many more dollars can be generated because of the events we can hold," Abbot said. "I think we can do a lot
