Dean

"I am pleased that Dr. DeWitt has agreed to serve as associate dean for our Sioux Falls and Watertown locations," MMC President Dr. Joseph Benoit said. "In creating the position, I was interesting in identifying a faculty member with administrative experience who had a strong understanding of academic affairs. I have full confidence in Dr. DeWitt's abilities as a faculty member and administrator."

Robert Tereshinski, MMC vice president and dean of Academic Affairs, echoes Benoit's sentiments.

"Being a former faculty member with Dr. DeWitt, I know of her excellent leadership qualities and the potential to help improve the academic direction of our Watertown and Sioux Falls locations," Tereshinski said. "I suggested to Dr. Benoit that she would be an excellent choice to take the position of associate dean for the locations."

One of DeWitt's biggest short-term goals for the campuses is to ensure the standardization of academic programs at both locations. One of her long-term goals is for students at Watertown to have as close as an academic experience as students at the Yankton campus have.

"I'm looking forward to developing community for the two sites and making them feel more of a part of Mount Marty," she said. "I'm also excited to help both sites develop new programs and improve the ones they have already."

DeWitt, who is originally from Castlewood, has been at MMC for 13 years. She holds a BS in Chemistry from South Dakota State University, a master's in chemistry from Kansas State University and an Ed.E. from the University of South Dakota.

"I'm looking forward to allowing the faculty at Watertown and Sioux Falls to develop and grow," she said. "I want to help the faculty at both sites become even more successful."

As part of her new responsibilities, DeWitt will not teach as many courses as she previously did. The only class she is teaching this year is freshman chemistry, which she enjoys because she is able to meet all the new students that come to MMC.

"I will miss spending time with some of the students that are science majors, which is what I have been able to do in the past when I taught more courses," DeWitt said. "However, I love a new challenge and a new experience."

She added she thinks she has the experience for the job after serving as the division chair to the Department of Natural Sciences.

"I will be doing for Watertown and Sioux Falls what I've been doing for the Natural Sciences division just on a larger scale," DeWitt said.

"I think Dr. DeWitt's academic capabilities to aid in leading our Watertown location is key to the future of both our main campus and the location in Watertown," Tereshinski said.

"I really care about MMC and I really want the school to be successful so this is giving me the opportunity to impact that," DeWitt added.

Travel

"We want to bill Yankton as a prime destination for Labor Day weekend," Hanten said.

Potential drawbacks of the date change include people already having obligations for the weekend, including going to parks across the state or attending the South Dakota State Fair in Huron. However, Hanten said this should be offset by the increased number of people coming to town for Ribfest and the Triple V Triathlon, which takes place the next day.

The Lewis and Clark Recreation Area is also expected to be at capacity all weekend.

"We will be full at the Lewis and Clark Lake resort and campground this weekend," said Jeff Van Meeteren, the regional park supervisor for the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish and Parks (GF&P). "This is one of our biggest holiday weekends of the year."

Van Meeteren noted this holiday is a lot like Memorial Day weekend in that weather drives both beach and boat traffic. He added there might be more traffic than expected at the lake this weekend given the weather forecast.

Jacquie Fuks, director of the Southeast South Dakota Regional Tourism Association, said Labor Day weekend is bigger than Memorial Day weekend and the Fourth of July.

"This weekend is really one of the last 'hoorahs' for families to get out and take a trip," she said. "They come to the area for that last getaway."

She added that she does not think the higher gas prices are affecting anyone.

"People are getting used to the prices of gas increasing at this point," she said. "The gas prices really have not been keeping anyone away at this point."

Fuks expects a lot of traffic this weekend to both the lake and Yankton's Ribfest.

Gov. Dennis Daugaard released a statement asking motorists to be extra careful when traveling this weekend.

Ten people were killed and 247 others were injured in crashes on South Dakota roads during the past five Labor Day weekends, according to the state Office of Accident Records. In addition, four of those fatalities were alcohol-related accidents.

"Designating a sober driver and always making it a firm practice to never drink and drive greatly increase the chances of having a safe trip and an enjoyable holiday weekend," Daugaard said in a statement. "Most accidents are entirely preventable if drivers make safe choices and make sure their passengers do, too."

Van Meeteren said the park typically has good traffic on Saturday and Sunday nights during the holiday weekend. Numbers might be slightly lower on Friday night because of various school sports and activities.

He added tourism numbers to the park were at a record level through July, with updated numbers coming out in the next week.

Van Meeteren thinks Ribfest and the draw of the lake help bring more people to town, and gives campers an activity to enjoy while they're here, much like Riverboat Days does.

He added, "When you can package Yankton and the lake together, it's really a win-win for both the community and the park."
