State Historical Society Offers Disaster Response, Recovery Workshops

PIERRE — The Dakota Connects to Collections Initiative (DCCI), a partnership between the South Dakota State Historical Society, the State Historical Society of North Dakota and the Association of South Dakota Museums, is conducting special disaster response and recovery workshops in August for museums, libraries and archives.

The workshop schedule in South Dakota is as follows:

- Aug. 12 — Aberdeen: Northern State University Library.
- Aug. 13 — Brookings: South Dakota Art Museum.
- Aug. 14 — Pierre: National Guard Museum.
- Aug. 15 — Deadwood: Homestake Adams Research & Collections Center.

Those interested can sign up for the free workshops at: <http://dcciworkshops2013.evontbrite.com/>.

Conservator Terri Schindel, who provided collections care workshops last year and disaster preparedness workshops this spring, will also lead these sessions.

“Being prepared is essential should a disaster strike,” Schindel said. “These workshops will review various disaster scenarios and also allow people to participate in several disaster drills. The focus will be on response, recovery and salvage techniques within the first 24 to 48 hours of a disaster.”

All staff, volunteers and board members are encouraged to attend the upcoming workshops, even if they were not able to participate in the spring workshops.

DCCI is offering 20 travel stipends per location for the 2013 workshops. Stipends of up to $100 per person may be used for lodging and mileage reimbursement. They are available on a first-come, first-served basis and may be requested through the online registration process.

For questions regarding registration, contact Dana at clearfour@btinet.net; or Jackie at clearfive@btinet.net; or call (701) 355-4458. For questions regarding workshop content, contact Terri at terrikschindel@gmail.com.

DCCI is funded by a grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services.

Giving From Grandpa's Wealth

BY DAVE RAMSEY

Dear Dave,
My grandfather died about a month ago, and I recently learned that in his will he distributed his money unevenly between his children and grandchildren. I received significantly more than other members of the family, but I make $140,000 a year. I'd like to give them some of my inheritance to even things out. How would you approach this? — Kate

Dear Kate,
You're obviously unselfish and have a really good heart. But honestly, it was your grandfather's decision and his money to do with as he pleased. It wouldn't be wrong or greedy to simply keep what you have without worrying about it a second longer.

If some of your relatives are having financial troubles and you feel that making a gift of a portion of your inheritance will help, you can do that. With your income, it's probably not going to change your life in a big way. My advice would be to look at your relatives and their situations objectively and see if something like this would really be a blessing. Then, if your heart and your head still tell you it's a good thing, do it. — Dave

PENSION SOLVENCY

Dear Dave,
Considering the condition of the economy, how secure should I feel about the solvency of my pension? — Crystal

Dave
RAMSEY

lem with a pension is that it's the property of the organization. If it's a union pension, it's not yours-it's theirs. All they do is pay you out of the fund. So if they go broke, you lose everything you had in there. If it's a business that has the pension, that makes them the owner-not you.

That's the beauty of the 401(k). You're the actual owner. If the company you work for goes broke or the union does a poor job of managing things, it doesn't harm your investment.

Don't misunderstand what I'm saying. There are good pensions and bad pensions, just like there are great managers and lousy managers. Just make sure you check into the solvency of the program before you put your money in there! — Dave

U.S. CURRENCY DEFLATION?

Dear Dave,
What do you think about predictions of a major deflation of U.S. currency? — Steven

Sacred Heart Monastery

2 Sisters Celebrate Their 25th Jubilees

Celebrating their 25th Jubilee of Monastic Profession at Sacred Heart Monastery, Yankton, were Sisters Denette Leifeld and Lynn Osika. Family and friends joined the Sisters of Sacred Heart Monastery at a Mass celebrated by Abbot Denis Quinkert on July 27. Ss. Denette and Lynn renewed their monastic vows in the presence of S. Penny Bingham, prioress.

SISTER LYNN OSIKA

Sister Lynn Osika, daughter of the late Rose Osika of Norway, Mich., celebrated her 25th Jubilee of Monastic Profession at Sacred Heart Monastery, Yankton, on July 27.

Born in Harvey, Ill., in 1957 to Louis and Rose Osika, Sister Lynn Osika was an only child but had many cousins and friends. After graduating from Marian High School in Chicago Heights, she studied forestry at Michigan Tech University in Houghton and then Range Management at the University of Wyoming in Laramie. S. Lynn worked as an agricultural researcher for the Kansas Rural Center (Whiting, KS) and later served as a volunteer in Kansas City, working in a Catholic Worker House in Kansas City, Mo., and running a Community Garden Project at Seton Center, a parish neighborhood center serving the poor of inner Kansas City. Serving the poor and stewarding God's creation have always been important to her.

S. Lynn entered Mother of God Monastery in Watertown and made first monastic profession in 1988 and perpetual monastic profession in 1992. She took care of the monastery grounds and assisted in the business office at Harmony Hill Center. After receiving a Master's degree in library science from the University of Missouri in Columbia in 1993, she worked as librarian at the Harmony Hill Library in Watertown and at the Watertown Regional Public Library. From 1997-2010 she worked in the Brookings Public Library.

In 2010 she returned to Watertown to serve as the monastery archivist, and in 2011 moved to Sacred Heart Monastery in Yankton to discern a transfer to that community. In Yankton she has volunteered in Mount Marty College library, worked at Yankton Community Library, and taught a Wisdom of Benedict class at MMC. Currently she is on staff at Mount Marty College, and also is organizing the Monastery Library. Commenting on community living at this time of jubilee, she says, “I treasure and need our times of prayer and the common life as much as I need breathing and eating. It has helped me become a whole person.”

SISTER DENETTE LEIFELD

Denette Marie Leifeld was born on March 17, 1960, at Neligh, Neb., the daughter of Dolores (Leifeld) Lingren and the late Jerome Leifeld. Growing up on a farm southeast of Petersburg, Neb., playing in the woods outside their house, exploring the hills, and herding cattle, she dreamed and wondered about God. Her parents taught her to pray various prayers, especially the rosary.

Denette attended District #56 for kindergarten, then St. John the Baptist Grade School, taught by the School Sisters of St. Francis. She graduated from Pope John XXIII High School, Elgin, Neb., in 1978. Music was a big part of her school days, accompanying various musical groups and the annual high school musicals. She attended Mount Marty College and graduated with a BA degree in accounting and business administration. Later she obtained an MBA from the University of South Dakota.

From 1982-1986, she worked as an auditor for the US Department of Agriculture, Office of Inspector General, traveling extensively throughout the Midwest as part of their work. During this time she made annual retreats at the Monastery and felt called to enter Sacred Heart Monastery in 1986. She made her first monastic profession in 1988 and final monastic profession in 1991.

S. Denette continues to use her talents and training as accountant in the Monastery Business Office, accompanist at liturgies, and as a Council member. She has also served as board member for various health care sponsored facilities for United Way in Yankton and is a member of the Residents Encounter Christ (REC) Renewal Team for Mike Durfee Prison in Springfield. For the Federation of St. Gertrude, she has ministered as Chair and member of the Federation Finance Committee and for the regional Conference of Religious Treasurers, she has served as President, Treasurer, and Secretary.

As a Benedictine, community, prayer and work are very important to Sr. Denette: “Within community I celebrate life and the sisters call me to growth and to become more. Through liturgy of the hours and my own lectio my relationship with God and others deepens. In my ministry, I see the face of God.”
