ON THIS DATE

75 YEARS AGO
Saturday, December 5, 1936
 • Twenty-four mining claims have been filed in the Sturgis area as a result of discovery of gold in his backyard by Sergeant John Bayliss several weeks ago. Bayliss is continuing excavations in a further search for the precious metal. The locality adjoins Dead Man's Creek.
 • The Montgomery Ward retail store here is displaying the results of a woodworking contest which started on November 1 and ended on December 3, in which those in the trade territory of Yankton participated and resulted in a total of 55 entries being made in both the men's and boys' divisions of the contest.

50 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, December 5, 1961
 • Arnold Boulais, a Madison man, was still in critical condition today in a hospital here from a .22 caliber rifle wound suffered last Friday. Boulais was struck in the left chest by a slug when his rifle accidentally discharged as he jumped out of his car to shoot a rabbit.
 • Using an experimental car to break the ribbon between their two states, South Dakota Gov. Archie Gubbrud and Iowa Gov. Norman Erbe will officially open Interstate Highway 29 at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 15.

25 YEARS AGO
Friday, December 5, 1986
 • A Hartington cheese manufacturing company will spread its waste at more than 450 privately owned sites in Cedar County under an agreement signed with the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control. Neu Cheese Co., Inc., has been disposing of the waste in earthen basins and lagoons. The department had sued the company, alleging that Neu Cheese violated environmental regulations.
 • A Yankton County jury has awarded Mabel Olson of Yankton $97,000 in damages for injuries she received from falling down the basement steps at Fanties department store in 1985.

Pearl

Vestal, caught in the line of fire. The skipper, back on board, would have none of it.

"Our orders were to abandon ship. But the skipper said, 'Hell, we're getting under way,'" Christopherson said, barking the skipper's order with a wry smile. "As soon as the lines were cut, we started to move away from the Arizona."

The skipper ran the Vestal into the mud flats until the attack was over. The Vestal crew was ordered to patch the hole in the bottom of the ship immediately and report for duty.

The Vestal, described by Christopherson as looking "more like an old tramp steamer than anything else," sailed the Pacific for two years as a basic repair ship working on 400 vessels.

Seven decades later, Christopherson is preparing to return to Pearl Harbor — this time as a veteran paying homage to fallen comrades.

In a separate interview with the Press & Dakotan, Christopherson said he and Konrad O'Hearn of Sioux Falls will make the trip Jan. 16. The journey is made possible thanks to Bill Williams of Sioux Falls and others raising funds to cover all expenses for the two veterans.

"The people in Sioux Falls are doing it because they feel the Pearl Harbor survivors should go back for the final memorial," Christopherson said, believing it will be the last official commemoration. "This will probably be the last chance for any of us to get back to the memorial."

The fact was driven home Saturday evening with the announcement that the National Pearl Harbor Survivors Association is turning in its charter after Dec. 31, 2011, because of the veterans' age and lack of support for the organization.

At age 87, Christopherson is one of the youngest Pearl Harbor survivors, adding urgency to next month's trip to Hawaii.

Of the five remaining South Dakota survivors, two Rapid City men are unable to travel for health reasons, Christopherson said. A Brookings survivor and his son will attend the Dec. 7 ceremony at Pearl Harbor.

"They couldn't raise the money and make the arrangements for us (last two) by Dec. 7, so we're going in January," Christopherson said.

Rick Christopherson, Darrel's son, attended Saturday's program and noted his father's attitude toward the Pearl Harbor attacks.

"For the 50th anniversary commemoration, they gave my dad a medal as a Pearl Harbor survivor," Rick said. "They had Dad go up and speak. He said, 'Don't blame the Japanese people of today for what happened in 1941. Their kids don't know any more about it than our kids do.'"

Saturday's program featured remarks by another World War II veteran, Harold Reinschmidt. He served in Europe during 1944-45.

Reinschmidt spoke of his experiences, including the rigors of being transported in the 40&8 boxcar. The name, later given to the veterans organization, refers to the boxcars that were supposed to hold 40 men or 8 horses.

"It was a solid box car, and there wasn't enough room for our 40 men," he said. "We drilled holes in the car. We didn't know if there were Germans outside, waiting to blow you up."

The soldiers never knew who to trust, Reinschmidt said. "One time, there were no German soldiers, just 40 kids who were 12 years old and in uniforms — and they were taught to shoot," he said.

Saturday's keynote speaker, Lt. Gov. Matt Michels of Yankton, said the evening provided a time to honor all those who have fought for liberty.

"When we remember Pearl Harbor, it is fitting to thank and honor every American who has answered the call to duty and served in the military, especially those who have served during times of war," he said.

On its 70th anniversary, the Pearl Harbor attack remains, as President Franklin Delano Roosevelt called it, "a day which will live in infamy," Michels said.

"The attack on Pearl Harbor remains one of the greatest tragedies that has ever occurred on American soil," Michels said. "America was wounded that day, but we were not broken. Out of the flames and rubble emerged a nation united in spirit and purpose, to defend our freedom at all costs and preserve America for the next generation." The nation wasn't ready for or even in agreement on another war, but it rose to the challenge of a strong, well-prepared enemy, Michels said.

"Those who served in the armed forces or lived during World War II are rightly referred to as our 'greatest generation,'" he said. "They bore incredible sacrifices at home and abroad, and (they) defeated an enemy that represented one of the greatest threats to our liberty we have ever seen."

Michels said he felt the emotions still present while visiting the Pearl Harbor memorial and remained in horror upon witnessing the site of the Bataan Death March in the Philippines.

"Through their sacrifices, Americans from the greatest generation turned one of our nation's greatest tragedies into one of our finest hours," he said. "They are a true testament to the power of American liberty."

Those sacrifices continue today, Michels said, noting last August's funeral in Yankton for U.S. Army Spc. Dennis Jensen, who was killed in Afghanistan. The 21-year-old Jensen not only volunteered to serve, but he did so with another unit.

Such sacrifices must never be forgotten, said Darrel Christopherson.

"It's important to hear our story, that we were able to listen to it, to see it on TV and read it in the papers," he said. "It's very important that we get the story out."

 CH BOOK 27 #2

SDCUC announces board nominations open

The South Dakota Corn Utilization Council (SDCUC) is a progressive organization which has visionary and influential producer leadership throughout the state. The 14-member board manages and invests South Dakota's 1-cent per bushel corn checkoff fund.

The SDCUC is announcing director positions that are open in Districts 1, 3, 5 & 8. A SDCUC director's position consists of a three-year term beginning on March 1, 2012. Each director can serve up to two-terms resulting in a six-year directors position.

If interested in seeking a board seat in one of the open districts you must obtain and file with the corn office a nominating petition. All nominating petitions must contain at least 15 "participating" corn producer signatures from your district. (A "participating" corn producer has not requested a refund of their corn assessment since January of 2010). Eligible candidates who wish to seek a director's position cannot have requested a checkoff refund from the SDCUC since January of 2007. Nominating petitions must be returned back to the SDCUC office by 5 p.m. on January 6, 2012.

To request a petition please contact the SDCUC office in writing at 5109 S. Crossing Place, Ste. 1, Sioux Falls, SD 57108 or call 605-334-0100.

If more than one nominating petition is received by the SDCUC office for any district, a special election will be conducted for that district. The elections will be held February 6-10, 2012 at the local extension offices in those counties.

The counties assigned to the districts accepting nominations for director positions are detailed below:

- District 1 — Clay, Lincoln, Turner, Union & Yankton
- District 3 — Brookings, Codington, Deuel, Hamlin & Kingsbury
- District 5 — Brown, Campbell, Corson, Harding, McPherson, Perkins & Walworth
- District 8 — Bon Homme, Davison, Douglas, Hanson, Hutchinson & McCook
