Will Scrapping Scrap Prius Plan?

BY TOM AND RAY MAGLIOZZI
 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Tom and Ray:

I have a wonderful car, a '97 Saturn that gets great mileage and has been reliable all this time. But it's beginning to signal me that it's time for a replacement. I'd like to get a Toyota Prius, but my curb cut is just steep enough that everyone I know who drives a Prius scrapes when they turn into my driveway. So, my questions are: (1) Would frequent scraping on the front of the car damage it? And (2) if the scraping would cause damage, can I have the car raised a couple of inches somehow so it doesn't contact the sidewalk every time I drive in and out? This probably sounds pretty stupid, but I really don't know anything about car bodies, so I'd appreciate your advice. Thanks! — Peter

TOM: Frequent scraping certainly can cause damage, Peter. Ask anyone who spends a lot of time riding a bicycle.

RAY: It really depends on what's being scraped. Lots of cars have a plastic wind deflector under the front bumper to improve mileage. If that's all you're scraping, it would be of no mechanical consequence — until it fell off. And even then, it still might not be of much consequence.

TOM: But if you were scraping, say, the oil pan, that could cause problems. Then you could tear it open one day as you were backing out of the driveway, lose all of your oil, seize the engine and then have to go out and buy yourself a cheap replacement car, like a used '97 Saturn.

CAR TALK

Tom and Ray Magliozzi

RAY: So this requires some specific investigation, Peter. Explain to your Toyota dealer that when you test-drive the new Prius, the route is going to have to include a trip up your driveway.

TOM: When you turn into your driveway (go very slowly), if you hear a scrape, you then can get out and watch and try to determine what's scraping. Even if you can't tell by watching, you may be able to see telltale scrape marks on something under there.

RAY: The Prius is designed with mileage in mind, so my guess is that what's scraping probably is some plastic shielding that improves airflow underneath the car. But since this car starts out low to the ground for aerodynamic purposes, you also could be risking a more important component. So my advice would be: If it scrapes, look for a different car.

TOM: You're not going to raise the car a few inches. That's impractical, and it's difficult to do. Plus, you'd change the car's handling and decrease its mileage. You might get half an inch out of larger tires, but if you need more than that, try something else.

RAY: There are several other Prius models now — The Prius V and Prius C — and you might find that one is better suited to your particular situation. If not, there are other great hybrids out there made by other companies, and you'll just have to consider one of those instead.

TOM: But before you buy any of them, make your driveway part of the test drive. You don't want to drive your brand-new car home for the first time only to discover that you now have to sell the house and move!

Which is cheaper, buying or leasing? Should you keep a car forever or dump it after three years, before trouble starts? Find out in Tom and Ray's pamphlet "Should I Buy, Lease, or Steal My Next Car?" Send $4.75 (check or money order) to Next Car, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

SCHOLARSHIPS

YANKTON COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Twenty-one named Yankton College Scholarships at $1,000 each will be awarded during the 2013-14 academic year to college bound students with a Yankton College connection.

Applicants must, either, have:

- a family relationship to Yankton College alumni, former faculty or staff;
- or a family friend, teacher or pastor with a connection to Yankton College recommend the applicant,
- or be a Yankton College graduate, former student, faculty or staff.

The Yankton College Scholarship Program awards two types of scholarships, general and post-graduate, to deserving students to use at an accredited college or university. The goals of the program are to perpetuate the College tradition of liberal arts in higher education, support deserving young persons who have shown outstanding promise, apply discretionary funds to a higher function and promote the memory and reputation of Yankton College.

Applications are available at the Yankton College office located at 1801 Summit St., Door No. 9 or online at www.yanktoncollege.org. To receive the financial aid, applications are due in February, then reviewed and ranked on the basis of merit and criteria from blinded applications in March. The recipients receive the scholarship awards in May and the scholarship funds are dispersed in August, unless notified otherwise.

Named scholarships come from the kindness of Yankton College alumni and friends who are inspired by the positive influences of Yankton College. They are:

General scholarships include:

- The Charles A. Alseth Scholarship
- The Bennett-Walter Scholarship
- The Brown-Daniels Scholarship
- The Rosamond Burgi-Hall Scholarship
- The Class of 1962 Scholarship
- The Gross Family Scholarship
- The Mary Lucille & Glenn Jensen Scholarship

- The Rev. Dr. Donald B. Ward Scholarship
- The Carl & Cle Youngworth Scholarship (2)

Post-graduate scholarships include:

- The Dr. Fritz A. Brink Scholarship (2)
- The Dr. Richard G. Sherman Scholarship

The 2013-14 applications and supporting materials must be postmarked no later than Feb. 15, 2013.

For more information on scholarships, contact Yankton College at (605) 665-3661, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m.

DAVIS-BAHCALL SCHOLARSHIPS

PIERRE — South Dakota high school seniors and college freshmen can now apply for Davis-Bahcall Scholarships and the chance to study next summer at the Sanford Underground Science and Engineering Laboratory in Lead with world-renowned researchers from universities across the United States and overseas, if funding allows.

Applications are available on the South Dakota Department of Education's website. Up to 12 South Dakota students will receive scholarships. The deadline to apply is Jan. 20, 2013.

Select students will be invited to interview at various locations in the state for the program; scholarship winners will be announced by early March.

Davis-Bahcall Scholarship recipients spend one month during the summer studying such things as physics, engineering and geology, and learning from distinguished professors from around the world.

In addition to the one-month summer study, those receiving scholarships may have the opportunity to apply for pre-selected summer internships.

To be eligible for the scholarships, high school seniors and college freshmen must attend public or private high schools or postsecondary institutions in South Dakota. Home-school students also are eligible. Students must have a demonstrated interest in science and intend to pursue advanced degrees in math, science, engineering or technology.

The scholarships, which are funded by the 3M Company and the South Dakota Space Grant Consortium, are named for renowned physicists Dr. Ray Davis and Dr. John Bahcall.

For more information, including details about the application procedure, visit the South Dakota Department of Education's website at doe.sd.gov. Look for the "Scholarships" link in the A-Z Index.

Consumerization of Information Technologies with Ed Koster
 Thursdays, February 7, 14, 21, 28
 6 PM - 7:30 PM | Bede Rm 115 | Limit 12 participants

The mainstream adoption of "cool" new tablet devices like the Apple iPad and smart phone technology is finally delivering on the promise that the information technology revolution has been touting for years - literally making information available at one's fingertips. Of course this phase of technology is not without peril. It can leave many wondering how these devices work, what the benefits are, and how fearful one gets of being left behind as more and more people adopt them. We will have plain language discussions and examples of how using these items can make life easier. Bring your iPhones and iPads.

The Poor Person's Bible with Fr. Thomas Wordekemper
 Thursdays, February 7, 14, 21 with field trip on Feb. 28 (10 AM - 3 PM)
 10:15 AM - 11:45 AM | Roncalli Rm 114

This class will look at symbols and stories in the stained glass windows, statuary and architecture of our Christian churches. We will study these treasures of art and faith in our local churches, especially, but not limited to, the Catholic churches. A field trip to some of the local churches in Yankton County and Cedar County in Nebraska will be planned so that we can see and study firsthand these treasures in area churches.

Acting, Improvisation, & Creative Dramatics with Andrew Henrickson
 Thursdays, February 7, 14, 21, 28
 12:45 PM - 2:15 PM | Roncalli Rm 114/Marian Auditorium

Always wanted to act and been too shy? Never in a play, so is it on your bucket list? Finally, a chance to act! Mr. Henrickson will help you find that hidden thespian within you. Here's a chance to be a bit reckless and carefree! Mr. Henrickson will get you on your feet as you are introduced to the basics of acting, using creative drama exercises as a foundational tool.

Genealogy Research on the Internet with James Bacorn
 Tuesdays, February 5, 12, 19, 26
 4:15 PM - 5:45 PM | Bede Rm 115 | Limit 12 participants

Always wanted to get the history of your family? Jim Bacorn has spent many years working on his family tree, and is willing to share all his secrets with you. Build your family tree and use resources (ie: social media and both free and fee-based websites) to validate and add information to it. Bring your computer/laptop.
