

USD Splits Basketball Twin Bill

7

YANKTON DAILY PRESS BDAKOTAN

Volume 139 Number 191

The Dakotas' Oldest Newspaper | 16 PAGES | www.yankton.net

INSIDE

YHS Woksape

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

Dec. 9 16 shopping days to Christmas

Farm Income Drives S.D. Recession Rebound

BY BOB MERCER State Capitol Bureau

PIERRE — The agriculture sector was a major boost to economic activity in South Dakota during recent years, according to a state government official. But lower crop prices

Expanding Medicaid?

Health Care Groups Ask Legislature To Cover Additional 48,000 In South Dakota BY CHET BROKAW Daugaard last week told

Associated Press

PIERRE — Some lawmakers and health care groups plan to ask the South Dakota Legislature next month to expand the state's Medicaid program to cover the medical costs of 48,000 more poor people, despite resistance from Gov. Dennis Daugaard.

state lawmakers that he is not recommending the Medicaid expansion, available to states as Hunhoff an option under the federal health care overhaul, as part of next year's government can meet its pledge to pay most of the cost of the expansion.

"I have continuing doubts about the federal government's ability to deliver on its promises," the Republican governor said. But supporters said an expansion is needed to improve health care for poor people who now wait until they are seriously ill before seeking medical care. They said hospitals are not paid for that emergency care and cover the loss by boosting charges to patients with private insurance.

MEDICAID | PAGE 13

state budget. He said the federal government is having trouble putting the entire overhaul into effect. He also wonders whether the federal

'The Rose Of Christmastide'

Mount Marty College, in conjunction with the Benedictine Sisters of Sacred Heart Monastery, presented the annual Vespers event Sunday with two-sold out performances at the Bishop Marty Memorial Chapel. This year's Advent performance, titled "The Rose of Christmastide," celebrated the Virgin Mary and featured music by the Mount Marty choirs as well as a special 19-piece chamber orchestra, all conducted by Kenneth Tice, MMC's director of Choral Activities. LEFT: During the performance of Mozart's "Regina Coeli, K. 108," Leacadia Christensen was one of three sopranos to solo during the piece, accompanied by both the full choir and orchestra. ABOVE: Bassist Kate Mathews adjusts her fingering while performing the Mozart work. Sunday's program featured a wide variety of seasonal works, ranging from classical pieces and chants to traditional holiday songs such as "O Holy Night" and "Silent Night," as well as contemporary works such as "The Rose" and "Mary Did You Know?" To see or purchase images from this event, visit spotted.yankton.net. (Kelly Hertz/P&D) and increasing values for farmland are worrisome for 2014 and beyond, he said.

Jim Terwilliger, economist for the state Bureau of Finance and Management, briefed members of the South Dakota Banking Commission in a conference call last week.

He said net farm income was more than 11 percent of total personal income in South Dakota for 2011 and was 8.8 percent for 2012. For the plains region, net farm income was 3.5 percent of total personal income in 2012.

Several of the banking commissioners expressed concerns that corn prices at $4 per bushel aren't strong enough to support the increases in land values.

Dick Westra of Aberdeen said crop yields weren't as good in 2013 and the impact on farmland rent and sales is unknown. He advised caution but noted the general mood was optimistic. "Most everyone is looking to '14 as a good ag year," he said.

Paul Christen of Huron said the loss of cattle in parts of western South Dakota from the October blizzard is a concern. He said there's some softness in retail activity in some communities and Black Friday sales weren't as strong as they might have been.

Steve Hayes of Presho said crop yields were good and cattle are doing well in his area but hunting was "tremendously down this year."

Banking Division director Bret Afdahl observed that deposits aren't matching loans among some smaller state-chartered banks. He said it's the first time since 2008 and generally deposit growth seems to have slowed.

Terwilliger said South Dakota emerged more strongly from the recession five years ago than the national economy has.

South Dakota non-farm

RECOVERY | PAGE 13

USD Begins Final Push Towards New Facility

BY JEREMY HOECK jeremy.hoeck@yankton.net

VERMILLION - All that remains between the first shovels hitting the dirt and construction beginning on a new athletic facility at the University of South Dakota is $9.5 million.

That final surge in fundraising, though, is the final piece in the lengthy process to build a 6,000seat arena for basketball and volleyball, an outdoor facility for soccer and track, and a Science, Health and Research Laboratory (SHRL).

Approval last week from the South Dakota Board of Regents was met with excitement by USD athletic department and Summit League officials.

"A new basketball arena has been a long time coming," said Yankton's Jeremy Kudera, who serves on the Howling Pack board of directors and is a member of USD's athletic hall of fame.

"It's no big surprise it was approved, but it's still nice to see that final step coming and passing,'

In total, the sports and academic complex has a price tag of $66 million, including the arena ($46.3 million), track and soccer complex ($7.3 million) and aca-demic laboratory ($12.6 million).

"This is exciting in that it puts us one step closer to making these projects a reality," USD athletic director David Herbster said in a release last week.

The plan is to begin construction next spring once USD raises the final $9.5 million, Herbster's statement continued.

The regents had originally approved USD's Facility Program Plan in October 2012 at a cost of $48.18 million, and the building committee approved the plan last month.

USD had to adjust its arena and SHRL plans — the arena concourse was reconfigured to be built at

USD | PAGE 13

JAMES D. CIMBUREK/P&D Members of Australia's Knox Grammar basketball team are served some food during a reception held for the team in Crofton, Neb., Sunday. Knox and Crofton will play a boys' basketball game tonight (Monday) as the Australia school continues its two-week exchange trip of the U.S.

Crofton Boys Host Australian Basketball Team Tonight

BY JAMES D. CIMBUREK

james.cimburek@yankton.net

CROFTON, Neb. — High schools in the upper Midwest regularly host ex-change students from other countries looking to expand their view of the world.

Today (Monday), Crofton High School is hosting an exchange on the basketball court.

Crofton will host a team from Knox Grammar in Wahroonga, Sydney, Australia, as part of the boys' school's twoweek trip to the U.S. The team is playing its fifth game since arriving in Nebraska on Dec. 3, and it will play two more games in Nebraska before playing a game in California on Friday, then heading home.

The school chose Nebraska based on the recommendations of another school in its league that sent a group to the state two years ago.

We always travel to different states, whether it's in America or up to Canada," said Dom Finlay, the tour director for Knox Grammar. "We had a school in our conference, Trinity Grammar, they traveled here two years ago, and traveled in similar areas. They came back and said how nice all the people from Nebraska were and the hospitality was outstanding, said it would be a great area to go on tour.'

Crofton High School principal and boys' basketball coach Todd Strom found out about the Knox Grammar tour as he

EXCHANGE | PAGE 13

REGION 2 | OBITUARIES 3 | MIDWEST 3 | VIEWS 4 | LIFE 5 | SPORTS 7 | CLASSIFIEDS 11 | WORLD 16

