WALK

from the previous season.

Using a map and brochure provided at local stores, people can stroll through the sculpture walk and read about each piece of art and the artist.

"There are many angles from which someone can look at this project," Scheve said. "It encourages the appreciation of art. We're encouraging people to get out in the community and see the different stores in that area. It also encourages people to exercise and be healthy."

Organizers also hope it will boost tourism numbers for Yankton.

"Having quality artists with good fanbases will help us draw in extra visitors to the Yankton area," Scheve said.

A celebration and auction in April will mark the end of each RiverWalk season. Throughout the year, the public will vote for a People's Choice Award recipient. The winner will receive a $500 cash prize.

The committee is currently raising funds to cover the costs of the artist stipends, sculpture pedestals and plaques. Major sponsors so far include XYZ, Inc.; Hy-Vee; CorTrust Bank-Fox Run and Culhane Communications.

"This is the first year, and we are still looking for sponsorships," Scheve said. "We've had great support so far. Yankton Area Arts, in particular, has been very supportive. They've put us in touch with artists and have offered the G.A.R. Hall for different events.

"This project is contingent upon community support," she added. "If we are successful this first year, we want to make sure the project continues. The more sponsorships we can get and the more people who become involved, the longer this project is going to be in the community."
