AUTHOR

Best of the West" series and in Best American Mystery Stories. In a recent review by Publishers Weekly, Meyers' latest work is called a "beautiful and unsettling new novel" with "arresting descriptions." The starred review compared Meyers' writing ability to the talents of Raymond Carver, Joy Williams and Peter Matthiessen. The Great Plains Writers Tour is sponsored by Mount Marty College, Yankton Area Arts and the South Dakota Humanities Council. The event is free to the public.

SHOW

California preparing shows there, and we have three groups touring. We call this one the Midwest tour, then we have a tour in Japan and another in the UK traveling right now.

Each tour lasts 10 weeks and typically visits 24 communities, where tour members do three-day workshops and a performance. At the workshops they work with up to 200 local children from grades 3-12.

The Young Americans in Yankton range in age from 18-24 years old. Members are chosen through auditions, with most of the kids that are in Young Americans coming from an outreach tour.

"Usually, the kids find us," Sampson said. "The ones who are really interested and want to join will ask us if they can try out. We always hold auditions after every performance. We also let them audition by sending a video tape to our head office."

Sampson said that he and the instructors with the show are very impressed with what they have seen in Yankton.

"Expect to be thoroughly impressed by both the show and (the community's) own kids," he said. "The show will be presented in two acts. The first hour will be the Young Americans doing their performances - musical variety stuff and all different styles of music and dance. The second act will feature and star the kids. The kids will be doing all the solos and the features of the show."
