

Battery Corrosion A Sign Of Impending Failure

BY TOM AND RAY MAGLIOZZI
 King Features Syndicate

Dear Tom and Ray:

I have a 2007 Kia Spectra EX that does not start all the time, and it is getting corrosion on the battery terminals. My husband cleaned the terminals just a few weeks ago, and the corrosion is back! Can you please tell me what is going on, and if a new battery will fix this issue? —Jennifer

RAY: Probably. When you're getting corrosion on the battery terminals, it's often a sign that your battery is out-gassing.

TOM: It's the battery equivalent of eating a couple of double-cheese-and-bean enchiladas.

RAY: Out-gassing usually is an indication that the battery is on its last legs. It often signifies that you've got a dead or dying cell, which in turn means the battery is putting out 10 volts, or 9.5 volts, instead of the usual 12. That's not enough to start the car reliably.

TOM: And unless you're parking on the beach, the fact that the corrosion came back just weeks after you cleaned it suggests that there's a whole lot of out-gassing going on. My guess is that it's time for a new battery.

RAY: But it can be checked. Have someone test the battery and charging system for you, and if you need another battery after five or six years, it wouldn't surprise me.

Don't get stuck with a lemon. Be an informed shopper. Read Tom and Ray's guide "How to Buy a Great Used Car: Secrets Only Your Mechanic Knows." Send $4.75 (check or money order) to Used Car, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

You Can Now 'Book A Librarian'

Are you having trouble with a certain feature of Facebook, Pinterest or Twitter? Do you need a quick tutorial on uploading photos, poking someone, or adding online friends? Then the new "Book a Librarian" program is for you. This program allows you to schedule 15 minutes to go over a problem you are having with your social media sites.

This program is designed for people who have mastered the basics of these social media sites and need a quick refresher or tutorial on a specific area. Those seeking help will be able to schedule one short session per week and must call at least one day in advance.

Call the library and ask for either Tonya or Dana in order to schedule your session. The program is free of charge.

For more information, contact the library at 668-5275.

Yankton Co. Parents As Teachers Seeks Volunteers

"What's in the bag" Is the statement that Parent Educator Holly Neth hears frequently on her monthly visits to families in Yankton County.

When she walks into a house the toddler knows that there is something exciting in that bag. One visit it could be the supplies to make a puppet to practice talking about emotions and the next time it could be sponges to develop the muscles needed to use scissors. For the next hour the educator, child and parent spend time focused just on the child and the relationship between parent and child.

By fostering this relationship, Yankton County Parents as Teachers is hoping to reach its goal of helping parents become their child's best and first teacher.

Each month Yankton County Parents as Teachers visits around 20 families of children under the age of 3 providing child development activities and parent education. The families are given books, ideas for age appropriate activities, and helpful information about what their child is going through at that stage in his or her life. Parents are also given the opportunity to meet other parents when they attend group parent meetings held throughout the year on a wide range of topics.

YCPAT has also started offering the Responsive Parenting class twice a year. This is a six-week series that allows parents a chance to learn what their infants and toddlers are trying to tell them and how to respond in a way that makes sense to that child.

Yankton County Parents as Teachers is now looking for some new board members if you would like to join the group in helping families in Yankton County or if you have any questions or would like more information regarding the Parents as Teachers program in Yankton County, feel free to contact Holly Neth at 661-4833 or at yanktonpat@gmail.com.
