Yankton Middle School wrapped up its local competition with its awards ceremony recently. Forty-six students competed for a shot at the 15-member team that would be selected to represent Yankton Middle School at the State Competition the end of March. Students have been meeting two nights a week since November to study and prepare for the local competition that was held recently.

Yankton coach Cheryl Schaeffer opened the awards program by extending a big thank you to all the parents and subject matter experts (SME's) for their support. She praised fellow Coach Tom Merrill who, in starting Science Olympiad competition 29 years ago, has taken the Yankton Middle School Science Olympiad Team to the national competition each of those 29 years.

Coach Merrill commented, "Whether they make the team, come in first, second, third or even fifth, it doesn't matter. They are winners because the made an attempt. Those who show up but don't make the team, but put the pressure on those who do, are just as valuable."

"Support your kids, no matter what the activity. They are our best investment!"

Based on competition placement, dedication to the team, and team needs, the following students were selected to the 2013 Yankton Middle School Science Olympiad Team: 6th graders Price Jensen, Jacob Paulson, and Owen Phillips (alternate); 7th graders Lauren Schild, Alex Palecek, Javier Lopez, and Ryan Knight (alternate); 8th graders Hunter Lippert, Sophie McKee, Lauryn Perk, Katie Schaeffer, and Kelsey Westerman; 9th graders Ted Anders, Sam Gusso, Ally Hagen, Joseph Kelly, and Mikayla Trenhaile.
