from the top of the key early in the second half. Her first points came on a couple free throws the next time down the court. She went to the bench frustrated after committing her third foul, throwing her towel under her chair as she sat down.

Lucas, who scored 34 points and made an arenarecord eight 3-pointers the last time she faced the Huskers, ended up 5 of 18 with three 3s.

"Stop her from getting hot. n't let Maggie Lucas catch focus, so we were ready."

The Huskers led all the way, were up 22 points at halftime and stretched the lead to 32. It was Penn State's most lopsided loss of the season.

With about a minute left, the student section began chanting, "We Want UConn!"

Laudermill's third 3-pointer put Nebraska up 14 points less than five minutes into the game, and she made three more before she missed from the corner after calling for a cross-court pass from Theriot spotted.

Penn State with 24 points, Maggie Lucas had 17 and Dara Taylor had 10.

The 94 points were the most points allowed by Penn State in a non-overtime game since a 96-81 loss to Iowa in February 2002. They were just clicking on all cylinders tonight, and when you meet up a team that's having one of those nights where everybody is having a good night, it's tough to beat them," Penn State coach Coquese Washington said.

The Huskers held Lucas scoreless until the second half. The Big Ten's second-leading scorer had averaged better than 23 points in four previous games against Nebraska. Hailie Sample and Laudermill shadowed Lucas everywhere, and the conference preseason player of the year missed her first eight shots before making her first field goal with 14:16 left.

The crowd razzed Lucas after she launched an air ball

the ball," Laudermill said, describing the defensive plan against Lucas.

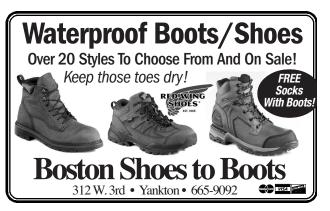

The game had been circled on the Huskers' calendar since their win streak put them back in contention in the Big Ten race.

"They kind of had our number for two years, and we couldn't really do anything against them," Hooper said. "Finally, we came out with more fire in our eyes and more light, so I kept shooting," Laudermill said. Nebraska outscored Penn State 14-2 the last 4 minutes of
