This St. Patrick's Day, Bite Into Green Potatoes

BY ELIZABETH KARMEL Associated Press

Until I moved to Chicago, St. Patrick's Day wasn't a big event for me. But that first year, I was stunned by the site of what locals took for granted — a boat slowly traveling the Chicago River depositing a rich green dye into the water. It was amazing to see the water turn emerald.

Thereafter I understood: St. Patrick's Day is taken seriously in Chicago. And it's a great excuse for an all-day party in cold and dreary

Since then, I've created various recipes for getting in the mood, including a flank steak marinated in Guinness. But this year, I decided to focus on that other staple of the Irish diet, the potato. And in honor of Chicago, I made it a "green" potato recipe.

I actually make these potatoes at home all year. It is one of those simple recipes that everyone asks for and can be cooked on the grill or in the oven. On the grill, you put the potatoes directly onto the cooking grates over indirect heat (I use the warming rack on my grill). To make the potatoes in the oven, you set the baking sheet. That way the hot air circulates around the potatoes, crisping them per-

These crispy roasted potatoes are crunchy on the outside and soft and silky inside. So much so, you don't need the addition of butter or sour cream to make them creamy. But they do get even better when tossed in a green herb and garlic sauce. The sauce is a simple uncooked sauce made from fresh green herbs, spices, garlic, shallots, lemon juice and olive oil. The hot roasted potatoes absorb all the flavors of the fresh herbs and the touch of lemon juice balances the starch, making for a light and almost refreshing potato side dish similar to a hot potato salad. And, they look great on the plate!

The potatoes also are just as good served cold the next day, so refrigerate any leftwiches for a new take on potato salad.

ROASTED "GREEN" POTATOES

Start to finish: 1 hour (15 minutes active) Servings: 6 24 small red potatoes, halved 2 tablespoons olive oil

1 teaspoon kosher salt For the sauce: 4 cups lightly packed chopped curly parsley (1 to 2 bunches) 2 cups fresh basil (or blend of fresh herbs) 3 to 5 cloves garlic, minced 1 teaspoon kosher salt 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper 1/2 teaspoon red pepper flakes

2 tablespoons minced shallot or onion 3/4 cup olive oil

1/4 cup lemon juice and set for indirect medium heat grilling. Alternatively, heat the oven to 350 F.

Place the potatoes in a large bowl or large zip-close plastic bag. Drizzle with olive oil and toss to coat. Sprinkle with salt and toss again to coat evenly.

If cooking on the grill, place the potatoes directly on the cooler side of the grill. If cooking in the oven, set a wire rack over a rimmed baking sheet and place the potatoes on the rack. Cook for 40 to 50 minutes, or until the potato skins are lightly puffed and the insides are tender. You do not need to turn the potatoes during cooking.

Meanwhile, prepare the sauce. In a blender or food processor, combine all ingredients and pulse until chopped well, but not liquefied. For a blender, it's best to start with the liquid ingredients and end with the parsley. are done, transfer them to a large serving bowl. Drizzle the sauce, about 1/4 cup at a time, over the potatoes and toss well to coat. You may have some sauce left over. Serve immediately or chill and serve cold.

Jim Lange, 'The Dating Game' Host, Dies At 81

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Lange, the first host of the popular game show "The Dating Game," has died at his home in Mill Valley, Calif. He was

He died Tuesday morning after suffering a heart attack, his wife Nancy told The Associated Press Wednesday. Though Lange had a successful career in radio, he is best known for his television role on ABC's "The Dating Game," which debuted in 1965 and on which he appeared for more than a decade, charming audiences with his mellifluous voice and wide, easygoing

He also played host to many celebrity guests. Michael Jackson, Steve Martin and Arnold Schwarzenegger, among others, appeared as contestants. Even a pre-"Charlie's Angels" Farrah Fawcett appeared on the program, introduced as "an accomplished artist and sculptress" with a dream to open her own gallery. The show's format: a young man or woman questions three members of the opposite sex, hidden from view, to determine which one would be the best date.

The questions were designed by the show's writers to elicit sexy an-

"I've never been out on a date before. What do two kids like us do on a date?" a teenage Michael Jackson asked one of his potential dates on a 1972 episode of the show. "Well, we'd have fun," the girl answered. "We'd go out to dinner, and then I'd go over to your house. Lange was born on Aug. 15, 1932, in St. Paul, Minn., where at 15 he discovered a passion for local radio after winning an audition at a local station.

They wanted a boy and a girl," he said in a 1992 interview with the Bay Area Radio Digest. "They wanted the boy to do sports and the girl to do the dances and stuff that was going on in the Twin Cities — very sexist — and play music once a week.

He hosted that show for two years before attending the University of Minnesota and doing a three-year stint in the Marines, according to the Bay Area Radio Museum.

His big break on network TV came in 1962 when he was made an announcer and sidekick on "The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show.

Later, after "The Dating Game" brought him national recognition, he also hosted the game shows "Hollywood Connection," "$100,000 Name That Tune" and "The New Newlywed Game.

think Cuarón is poised to get the best director award. Some have said that "12 Years" was done so skillfully that it seemed undirected. I find truth in that line of thought. This may very well be one of those years wherein the best director and best film go to different movies — both of which are very deserving in each Nathan says: What a great field. Five of these films were in my top 10 for 2013, and three others were honorable mentions. "Gravity" was a tour de force in technology and vision. Slightly cliched at times when it came to storytelling? Perhaps. But wow. I didn't name it my movie of the year for nothing. "The Wolf of Wall Street" was a close second, and I'm probably rooting for that just because I love Martin Scorsese so much. But my feeling is that the historical and moral weight of "12 Years a Slave" will win the night.
