NBC Suspends Brian Williams For Six Months Without Pay

BY DAVID BAUDER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — NBC announced Tuesday that it is suspending Brian Williams as "Nightly News" anchor and managing editor for six months without pay for misleading the public about his experiences covering the Iraq War.

The network's decision came less than a week after Williams apologized for saying on the air that he was in a helicopter hit by a grenade in 2003. Instead, he was in a group of helicopters and another was hit, and some veterans involved in the mission called him out on it.

NBC chief executive Steve Burke said Tuesday that Williams jeopardized the trust he has built up with viewers during his decade as the network's lead anchor.

"His actions are inexcusable and this suspension is severe and appropriate," Burke said. But he said "he deserves a second chance and we are rooting for him. Brian has shared his deep remorse with me and he is committed to winning back everyone's trust."

Williams declined to comment following the announcement.

NBC News President Deborah Turness said the review of Williams' work by NBC's investigative editor Richard Esposito, together with the network's general counsel, is continuing. She said she was concerned with Williams' comments both on the air and in outside venues. Williams told the war story on David Letterman's talk show two years ago in addition to "Nightly News" on Jan. 30.

Williams has the responsibility to be truthful and uphold the standards of the news division, Turness said. But she said she felt it would be wrong to disregard the work that Williams has done and the "special relationship" he has built with viewers over 22 years.

"As I'm sure you understand, this was a very hard decision," she said in a memo to NBC staff members. "Certainly there will be those who will disagree. But we believe this suspension is the appropriate and proportionate action."

Some critics called for Williams' firing, suggesting that it would be difficult for NBC viewers to trust him again. But others, including several viewers who wrote on NBC's Facebook page, said they would be angry if NBC let him go for this violation.

It was a crucial commercial decision for NBC, too. "Nightly News" has remained atop the evening news ratings, and averaged more than 10 million viewers a night last week.

Lester Holt, Williams' primary substitute, will fill in for him during the six-month suspension, Turness said.

5 Starving Horses Rescued From Boone County Property

ALBION, Neb. (AP) — Authorities have rescued five starving horses from their owner in Boone County.

On Monday members of the Nebraska Humane Society equine team took the horses away for veterinary care, food, training and eventual adoption. The owner surrendered the horses. The team members say they noticed the carcasses of several dead horses on the property.

The horses' owner has been charged, but Boone County authorities have not released his or her name.

Marriage

while, meanwhile, marriage equality is a real thing in Alabama and Florida.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has granted a request to consider appeals from South Dakota, Arkansas and Missouri that positions itself to weigh in before an expected U.S. Supreme Court ruling that could settle whether same-sex couples can marry nationwide. The 8th Circuit hearing is scheduled for week of May 11 in Omaha, Nebraska.

"The determination of whether the citizens of a state define marriage is presently before the 8th Circuit federal court and U.S. Supreme Court. Plaintiffs may want to reconsider relying on what is developing in Alabama to support their position," South Dakota Attorney General Marty Jackley said of Newville's request.

A federal judge struck down Alabama's ban on gay marriage, but probate judges are having to decide whether to oblige and issue licenses or follow an order from Alabama Chief Justice Roy Moore telling them not to allow the unions.

Opt-Out

Controls to compile a list of not only the absolute necessary upgrades but also several wish-list items, some of which will not end up being completed.

"At least we know now how much they will cost should we decide to do them in the future," Esping said. In other business, Superintendent Mark Froke reported on a few legislative items at the state-level dealing with issues such as the capital-outlay fund and the juvenile justice system.

A Teacher Evaluation Instrument was approved along with the new Superintendent Performance Evaluation Policy.

The board also declared surplus property of a field irrigator and weight and fitness equipment which will hopefully be traded or sold in the near future.

PUBLIC NOTICES = GOOD GOVERNMENT

“Newspapers matter. Newspapers play an important role in our democracy. Newspapers inform citizens about the work of government and about the impact on our lives of decisions made by government officials. From city hall to the state capitol and beyond, a free and fair press matters. Likewise, government notices published in the local newspaper are important to keeping the public informed about the business of government. Local government meeting minutes, proposed local government budgets, zoning ordinances and election notices provide a foundation of openness, transparency and accountability. Informed citizens are key to a healthy, strong democracy and public notices help fulfill that role.”

— Dennis Daugaard,
South Dakota Governor

House Bill 1167 would harm your right to know by eliminating the publication of government public notices in your local newspaper.
