Several animals are available at the Yankton Animal Shelter. For more information call the Yankton Police Department's Animal Control Officer, from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday-Friday at 661-9494, or 668-5210. A $5 fee is required to adopt an animal.

DAILY RECORD POLICY

The Press & Dakotan publishes police and sheriff reports as a public service to its readers. It is important to remember that an arrest should not imply guilt and that every person is presumed innocent until proven otherwise. When juveniles are released from jail, it is into the care of a parent or guardian. It is the policy of the Press & Dakotan to publish all names made available in the police and court reports. There are no exceptions.

fit from the QUEST collaborative has been the ability to share best practices with the other hospitals. "We have access to hospitals nationally that are working on common goals and trying to develop those best processes regardless of where they are located in the nation," she said. "We trial things and share our stories, and they share their stories, so we can say, 'Yeah, that would work better for our facility. Let's try that.' We also share what we've found so that we can not only impact patients here locally, but also help improve processes for facilities throughout the nation." Sharing those processes has allowed ASHH to make improvements in several areas, Guenther said. "We have looked at internal processes on certain key measures — for example, reducing the time it takes us to get antibiotics to our patients by looking at the processes internally with pharmacy and nursing, or with diagnostics, lab and radiology to ensure that we can diagnose as quickly as possible to start those therapeutic processes," she said. Two Eagles To Hold Book Signing Feb. 2

Ihanktowan Dakotah Oyate (Yankton Sioux Tribe) member Vince Two Eagles will be signing copies of his recently-released 156-page book, "The Rez of the Story," at the Yankton Community Library at 2-7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 2. During the book signing, Two Eagles will also be speaking about the symbolism represented in his book cover and additional symbols in Native American culture. A resident of Wagner and the Yankton Indian Reservation there, Two Eagles has been producing a weekly column for more than three years for his local newspaper, The Wagner Post. The column grew out of ongoing efforts of the Wagner community to improve communication between the community's Native American and non-native residents. Two Eagles' book includes a collection of his first year's columns, which address topics such as what it means to be native, a Native American perspective on being "traditional" and reflections on the impact of Native American experiences in boarding schools. His work also skillfully addresses issues such as stereotyping, the benefits of diversity and the origin of some common terms such as "Red Man." Two Eagles' current column is being featured in the Yankton Press & Dakotan. More information about Two Eagles and his book is available at www.therezofthestory.com.

Thursday, January 28, 1937

- The flooded Ohio river, struggling like a captive serpent of fabulous strength, sought to escape against weakening levees today on its cresting descent to the Mississippi. The known dead stood at 293, the homeless passed the million mark, an additional 400,000 were endangered, and property loss was estimated at more than $400,000,000.
