Thursday to repair his adductor muscle, which is part of the groin. The team said Peterson was expected to be fully recovered in about six weeks, giving him plenty of time to heal before offseason workouts get going. The procedure was performed by Dr. William Meyers at the Vincera Institute in Philadelphia

Peterson rushed for 1,266 yards in 14 games, missing two in December due to a sprained right foot. The groin problem was lingering long before that, though, sappling him of some of his explosiveness. He acknowledged after a loss at Seattle Nov. 17 that the injury was bothering him "a lot." Peterson gained only 65 yards on 21 carries that afternoon, albeit against the league's best defense.

the fourth-highest total of his career. But then came the sprained foot in the snow Dec. 8 at Baltimore, and he played only once more, and not at full speed. He tallied 45 yards on 11 attempts at Cincinnati on Dec. 22 and said afterward professional tryout agreement. PROVIDENCE BRUINS — Returned he felt uncomfortable, a rare admission for one of the sport's most confident G Jeff Jakaitis to South Carolina (ECHL). SAN ANTONIO RAMPAGE and determined players.
