We went 4-1, you're never going to complain about a 4-1," Hage said. "Although Tea (Area) doesn't have the experience that many of the teams have, or even we have, but on the other side of things the guys went out and built confidence from the practice room to the mat."

Wrestling

Wrestling
Hage is looking for his young squad to build off a victory over a lesser opponent.

Wrestling

Wrestling
"Hopefully if your stuff works against this level of competition, you have to think it will work at a higher level," Hage said. "You impose your will on the opponent and get after it."

Wrestling

Wrestling
The Yankton Bucks will compete in the Brookings High School Inviation, starting Saturday morning.

Wrestling

Wrestling
Hage understands where his team is at currently, but is expecting them to perform against the area's best wrestlers.

Wrestling

Wrestling
"It's a big invite, there's about 17 to 18 teams competing up there," he said. "If you take a look online at the seeding just about every weight class has about six to eight to 10 to 12 rated wrestlers. It's as close to a state wrestling tournament as it gets. It's going to be brutal, no doubt about it. We aren't healthy, nor will we take a full team, but we're going to go up and

Decision

Decision
He also feels it's not the right time to pull his injured wrestlers from the side-line.

Wrestling

Wrestling
We're being pretty precious with some of our injuries," Hage said. "To put a guy out a day early, it's probably not very wise with regions right around the corner. We're going to hold them out, get them out there next week and see where they are at. The big picture is February, the big picture is the state tournament and that's what we have to keep our eyes on."
