ON THIS DATE

75 YEARS AGO
Friday, January 12, 1940
• Closer contact and cooperation between business men and farmers will be the keynote of the present year's program of activities of the retail merchants division of the Yankton Chamber of Commerce, it was decided at a meeting of the division held in the Chamber room at the city hall.
• Many South Dakotans remember today this memorable date in the history of the commonwealth, January 12, 1888, when one of the worst of the devastating blizzards which swept the Dakota prairies during the earlier years of its settlement claimed 112 lives.

50 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, January 12, 1965
• Gonzalo J. Facio, ambassador of Costa Rica, addressed a formal convocation in Forbes hall auditorium, Yankton College, at 10 a.m. today, and held an informal get-together with the public in Forbes auditorium at 11 a.m. as part of the college's Area Program of International Understanding.
• Petitions for referendum of the action taken by the Yankton city commission recently to set up parallel parking on Third street were presented to the city commission Monday evening, and the commission set February 2 as the date for a special election on the question.

25 YEARS AGO
Friday, January 12, 1990
• A bill to provide free tuition to medical school students who agree to practice in certain areas of the state was among a handful of measures introduced Thursday in the South Dakota Legislature.
• The South Dakota House and Senate agreed Thursday to restrict public smoking to just two areas in the portion of the state capital controlled by the Legislature.
