Still, in his stint this summer in Yankton, Veith is not the only Wisconsin native playing for the Tappers. Pitcher Jesse Bailey, who will be a senior for the Mount Marty baseball team next season, is from Eau Claire, Wisc.

"I heard his name before, growing up playing ball out in Wisconsin," Bailey said of Veith. "But I can see he plays the game hard and is fun to be around. We didn't know what to expect from, but he's come through big time."

For the summer, Veith is staying on a ranch with a husband and wife nearly 10 miles from Yankton, in Nebraska. Every morning during the week, he drives to his internship, where he helps the Wastewater Treatment Plant with operational duties and lab work.

Veith will not leave Yankton until the end of August, meaning he will be available for the Tappers in the South Dakota State Class A Amateur Tournament.

And for his teammates, that's just fine.

"He knows what college baseball is all about, so he fits in well that way," Bailey said. "He knows the intensity, but he still jokes around with all of us."

Scotland's Name Change

Fans at any Scotland amateur game this summer will notice something quite different.

Not only have the traditional black jerseys been replaced with green and silver, the name no longer says "Highlanders." Instead, the jerseys read "Stingers."

And according to manager Bryan Fuks, there's a good reason for the change.

"I figured this year, we had such an influx of young players coming in that we needed to get away from being in high school," Fuks said, referring to the amateur team previously sharing a name with Scotland High School.

"This is amateurs; we're our own team."

In a league that already features the Mad Frogs, Bluejays, Bluebirds, Cardinals, Broncs, Expos and Tappers, Scotland needed a change before the 2010 season started, according to Fuks.

"Everybody else has their own little mascot, so I figured we needed to join the party," he said. "So I came up with the Stingers, and the guys seemed to really like it."

Fuks also joked that because the Menno Mad Frogs refer to their home field as 'The Pond,' perhaps Scotland could come up with a nickname of its own.

"I'm thinking something like the 'Hornets Nest,'" he said.
