that we did not have before, which is great."

She added that package vacation deals are also more accessible on the website, and visitors can easily book a package deal simply by clicking on the appropriate link.

Although the new website allows users to look at a copy of various southeastern South Dakota tourism brochures, Fuks said the website will not replace the paper brochures.

"For the most part, people will still want a physical copy of our information brochures," she said. "People still come in to request our information to be sent to them."

The tourism association has been marketing the website to users in various different ways over the past few weeks. They have used social media through Facebook and Twitter to advertise the website, as well as email blasts talking about the new website and its features. The association will also direct people more to the web to get the information that they need.

"The number one thing people have looked at on our website, above all others, is history information and historic things to do and see in the region," Fuks said.

She added that although there is currently minimal video content on the website, the association is hoping to expand that in the future.

"We are taking little steps with video as we go," Fuks said.

The tourism association spent about $20,000 on the website, but Fuks said it is money well spent.

"The world has gone to the web, and if you're any kind of business now, you need a website," she said. "So far, we've also gotten really good feedback on the website."

Fuks noted that the department looked at various tourism websites from around the country and took what they liked and disliked from those sites to create simplysouthdakota.com.

"So far I'm very happy with the website, and it came out well," Fuks said. "However, websites are never done. You always need to make changes as you go and keep content fresh."

ported by the South Dakota Cattlemen's Association, the South Dakota Stockgrowers Association, the South Dakota Farmers Union and the South Dakota Livestock Marketing Association.

The program inspects the brands on about 1.5 million head of livestock each year when cattle or horses are sold, slaughtered or moved out of the inspection area, which covers all of South Dakota west of the Missouri River. Most of the inspections are at local sale barns, but some are conducted at ranches for private sales or when livestock is shipped elsewhere.

Larry Stearns, the board's executive director, said the fee increase is needed to cover the rising costs of inspections. Brand inspectors have received the same salary increase given to other state employees and the cost of traveling to inspection sites has risen with higher fuel prices, he said.

Nathan Sanderson, an adviser to the governor who conducted the compromise talks, said he and representatives of the agricultural groups have gone through the board's budget records in detail. He said he believes the fee increase is justified.

"I'm absolutely comfortable with where we're at," Sanderson told the legislative committee.

Entries For State Fair Beef Cook-Off Due Aug. 1

HURON — South Dakota is known for its good cooks and great beef—and the 2012 South Dakota State Fair Beef Cook-Off is the opportunity to put a spotlight on the state's accomplished home cooks and great-tasting, nutritious beef in a friendly, fun annual event.

"If you're one of our state's good amateur cooks armed with a great beef recipe, it's time to enter the State Fair Beef Cook-Off," says Karla Pazour, chair of the event. "We'd love anyone who enjoys cooking to participate," says Pazour. "The State Fair is a true South Dakota affair with competition in everything from horticulture to livestock breeds." The Beef Cook-Off is one more friendly competition featuring grills, skillet and beef.

Entries and recipes are due Aug. 1, 2012 for the State Fair Beef Cook-Off to be held Saturday, September 1 at the South Dakota State Fair in Huron. The contest is open to non-professional South Dakota residents in either the youth division (10-18 years) or adult division (19 and older). Beef recipes submitted must feature a main meal entrée appropriate for entertaining or special occasion meals. Judging is based on taste, appearance, originality, nutrition and ease of preparation. The winner of the youth division will receive a $250 cash prize, while the adult division winner will take home $500 in cash. Thanks to the Beef Check-off dollar, there will be $1,500 in cash prizes awarded.

Pazour says, "Many people have fond memories of their favorite meals on vacation or at trend-setting restaurants." This year's cooking theme "DESTINATION: DINNER" challenges the cook to replicate recipes that are representative of specific locations—think Bourbon Street Steak, Lone Star Salad, Beef Burgundy, Korean-Style Ribs, explains Pazour. Beef's versatility makes it a natural for various ethnic creations. She says, "Sometimes you can escape from life's ordinary by simply creating an extraordinary beef meal!"

Individuals selected to compete will actually prepare their beef entrée in a public area during the Beef Cook-Off, allowing participants to interact with state fair attendees. Judges are kept in a secluded location and recipes are judged completely on the finished product, not on cooking procedures.

Hosted by the South Dakota CattleWomen and funded by the SD Beef Industry Council through the Beef Check-off, the State Fair Beef Cook-Off is an excellent way, says Pazour, to educate consumers on the 29 lean cuts of beef along with beef's versatility, ease of preparation and excellent taste.

For more information and to print an entry form for the State Fair Beef Cook-Off, go to www.sdbeef.org or www.sdstatefair.com . Entry forms and recipes must be submitted by Aug. 1 on the www.sdbeef.org website or to Karla Pazour, SD Beef Cook-Off, 25725 350th Ave., Pukwana, SD 57370. Finalists will be selected and notified by Aug. 17. Any additional questions about the contest can be directed to Pazour at (605) 894-4490.
