SDSU Extension To Host Drought Updates July 23

BROOKINGS — The current drought is having a negative impact on agriculture, South Dakota's number one industry.

To provide the most current information and resources to the state's crop and livestock producers, SDSU Extension will host Drought Updates at SDSU Extension Regional Centers throughout the state on Monday July 23.

"The drought is worsening day by day and has reached the critical point where South Dakota's crop and livestock producers will need to make significant management decisions to address its challenges," said Rosie Nold, Agriculture and Natural Resources Program Director for SDSU Extension. "SDSU Extension is here to provide information and key resources."

With the aid of live video streaming, SDSU Extension will bring together experts from across the state to discuss the drought and its impact on crops, livestock and the families involved with agriculture producers throughout South Dakota. Extension Field Specialists specializing in livestock, crops and family will address regional or local issues at each Extension Regional Center, with much of their time devoted to question and answer sessions. Representatives from local agencies and organizations are invited to attend and contribute information and resources available to help producers and families.

Seminar presenters include: Jon Farris, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture; Dr. Dennis Today, State Climatologist; Warren Rusche, SDSU Extension Cow/Calf Field Specialist; Dr. Mike Moechnig, SDSU Extension Weeds Specialist, and Bob Fanning, SDSU Extension Plant Pathology Field Specialist; and Carrie Johnson, SDSU Extension Family Resource Management Field Specialist. Each specialist will discuss specific issues dealing with their area of expertise and provide practical management strategies and resources agriculture producers can rely on during this drought.

The updates will be held at 7 p.m. CST and 6 p.m. MST at all eight of the SDSU Extension Regional Centers: Aberdeen (605-626-2870), Lemmon (605-374-4177), Mitchell (605-995-7378), Pierre (605-773-8120), Rapid City (605-394-1722), Sioux Falls (605-782-3290), Watertown (605-882-5140) and Winner (605-842-1267). For location addresses, visit iGrow.org.

SDSU Field Specialists in the areas of crops and livestock will be available onsite to visit with attendees and answer questions. Other field specialists will address family issues, including budgeting and stress.

"This is a difficult time for all aspects of South Dakota's agriculture industry. We know each agriculture producer and family is impacted by the drought in a uniquely different way," Nold said. "This seminar is only a starting point, but it is our way of providing support and answering as many questions as possible in one place and at one time."

75 YEARS AGO

- The Marquis Guglielmo Marconi, who invented wireless telegraphy when he was only 21 years old, died suddenly at 3:45 a.m. today (8:45 p.m. Monday CST) at the ancient palace in down town Rome where he lived and worked.
- Word from Lakeport brings the distressing news that anthrax has, in the last week, taken 18 cattle, 2 head of horses and some sheep and hogs. The biggest loser is Louis Hajek who lost 7 head of cattle, second in this distinction is Fred Wartz who lost 3. There have been five new cases of the deadly malady since yesterday, occurring in the stock of Joe Gleich, Paul Kunda, Mrs. Fred Nelson, Frank Nedved and A. K. Nedved.

Friday, July 20, 1962

- Out of sight, behind Sacred Heart convent on the broad brow of the chalk rock escarpment known as Mount Marty, there stands today an enormously impressive new structure which is being shown to the public for the first time this month, and after this, possibly never again. It is a multiple-wing annex to the convent - home of some 500-600 Benedictine Sisters - an addition which was completed and occupied shortly after the first of the year.
- Project superintendent Ed Bruenning of Yankton points to the air conditioning units being installed on the new education building at the University of South Dakota as he gives Dean M. W. Deltzell a look at the new building now under construction.

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, July 20, 1987

- The horror of the church camp bus and van tragedy in Comfort, Texas, struck deeply into the hearts of a Yankton family. After hours of anxious waiting, Velma (Pond) Hutcheson and her husband, Carl, learned Saturday their granddaughter was among the survivors of the Guadalupe River floodwaters.
- With opportunities to spoil somebody's Sunday night, the only spoilage that turned up was in Freeman as the Flyers spoiled Scotland's chances at gaining a tie for fourth place. In the rest of the league games, Crofton and Lesterville were unable to spoil the first-place hopes of Tabor or the Old Milwaukee Brewers and Avon forfeited to the Ciml Packers.
