Track

sportcentral.com. On Saturday, registration begins at 7 a.m. near the Gayville veterans memorial. The 5K run/walk begins at 8 a.m., followed by the 1K run/walk at 9 a.m.
The registration fee is $20, with each participant receiving a free T-shirt. Prizes will be given in each age group and for the overall male and female winners. However, entrants are welcome just for fun. The run/walk course will remain within town.
Persons with questions or wanting to register can contact Amy Gustad at 660-0691 or email friendsogfv@gmail.com.
The run/walk won't be a one-time event, Gustad said.
"We want this to be an annual event, even when the track is built. We will continue it because we figure we will need fundraisers to cover expenses," she said. "We're already looking at how to make (the fundraiser) bigger next year. We are considering adding a 10K bike ride."
The run/walk will take on a couple of fun attributes, Buffington said. The theme, "Welcome To The Big Town" is partly a play on Gayville's population of about 400 residents. The theme also plays off former G-V track coach Jason Wagner's desire to make the program "Big Time," one event at a time.

"But the 'Big Town' theme also comes from my (physical education) kids. We don't have a track, so we run around town," Buffington said. "The 'Small Town' is the one-mile run, and then they graduate to the 'big town' run around Gayville's entire perimeter of 1.8 miles. It's a rite of passage, and the kids are excited to get the recognition."
Saturday's event will also play off the Summer Olympics, which begin this week in London.
"Marathoners finish their run with a final lap around the stadium," he said. "On Saturday, our runners and walkers will take their last lap in our 'stadium,' on the grass around our future track."
Gayville-Volin school board member Kent Buckman, also a member of the run/walk committee, said the track will provide a tremendous boost to the district.
"Anything that will take the burden off the school is great. Our goal is to raise all private funds for the track," he said. "We will start working with the contractors to get more information from them. We can then release for bids, possibly this fall."

The track will benefit more than just the athletes, Buckman said. "The community can also use it for a running track, especially with all the roads torn up, in and around town."
With his recent surgery, Buffington also knows the exercise benefits that a track could offer all ages for wellness.
"My physical therapist competed in track in high school and at the University of Mary. He used to work in Eureka and said people really enjoyed the track there," Buffington said. "As a physical therapist, he also said this kind of track is best for older people who need to work on their health, because the track has a flat surface with a little bit of cushion."
The track surface arose from a discussion among local residents following the G-V boys' state track championship in 2009. The actual fundraising began only a few months ago and includes $65,000 raised from the Trackapalooza auction benefit last March in Gayville and the nearly $6,000 raised at the June golf tournament at Fox Run Golf Course in Yankton.
"Fundraising has been great. People have been very generous," said committee member Jerry Gustad. "We are going to put a renewed emphasis on grant writing this fall. We have been told by some (foundations) that they will take another look at us as we get closer to our goal."

Checks can be made payable to Gayville-Volin Track Fund and sent to the school at 100 Kingsbury, Box 158, Gayville SD 57031.
Buckman said he has been overwhelmed at the support shown by area communities. He figures local fundraising has raised about $100,000 for the school track, fire department and other local causes during the past year.
"People were really fired up at the (Trackapalooza) auction. I was excited at the amount we raised," he said. "I was humbled and felt good, knowing we have that kind of support for the project."
Buffington calls the outpouring of generosity "a blessing."
"Each step we take is totally amazing," he said. "It's not just the financial support, but the support in general, the interest and the excitement that has been created and shown from all sectors of our communities."

50 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, July 25, 1962
• Dusk had deepened into darkness before the crunch and grind of weary wagon wheels sounded on the Beaver Creek hill north of Yankton Tuesday night, heralding the arrival of the Orin Gulbranson family on its way from St. Cloud, Minnesota to Salt Lake Valley, Utah.
• Running into Wallbaum's Tuesday evening was a car operated by Mable Aberambt, Mitchell. A passenger in the car, Jessie Rumbolz, Compton, Calif., may be seen seated in the car. The auto bent over a parking meter before running into the building. The driver told the police her brakes failed, but she was cited by police for reckless driving.

25 YEARS AGO

• President Reagan's chief spokesman on Friday cited the Kuwaiti supertanker mining incident as "a good example" of why the United States must escort vessels in the tense Persian Gulf, but Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said it dramatizes an "ill-conceived plan."
• Nancy Teachout is well aware Tom Riley left a big pair of shoes to fill. That's why she looked for help when she decided to try them on. Teachout is chairman of Yankton Riverboat Days this year, replacing Riley, who managed the annual august event through its first three years, 1984 to 1986.

Abortion

tion between abortion and suicide." Planned Parenthood relied on another study to argue its belief that certain underlying factors, such as mental health issues, predispose women to have both unwanted pregnancies and suicidal tendencies.
Sarah Stoesz, president of Planned Parenthood Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota said in a statement that she is "extremely disappointed" by the federal court ruling, adding that no reputable scientific evidence shows a cause-effect relationship between abortion and suicide.
"This ruling by the 8th Circuit Court represents the greatest intrusion by the government into the patient doctor relationship to date," she said.
Leslee Unruh, the founder of the Alpha Center pregnancy counseling center in Sioux Falls, which seeks to persuade women not to seek abortions, applauded Tuesday's decision as one that benefits South Dakota women.
"We are thrilled. This has been a long time working from 2005. It's a long, long haul. We are so excited for the women of South Dakota that they have this victory," she said.
The suicide advisory was part of a larger law requiring South Dakota doctors to provide women seeking abortions with certain information. Doctors also must inform patients that that an abortion will terminate the life of a human being and that the woman has an existing relationship with the unborn human being under the law.

Tuesday's ruling was the final piece in the fight over the law's constitutionality.
"Now, essentially, the entirety of the 2005 legislation aimed at helping inform a woman of certain risks before an abortion will now be in place and all of it will be in effect," said South Dakota Attorney General Marty Jackley.
A law passed last year that requires women seeking abortions to wait 72 hours and undergo counseling at pregnancy help centers that discourage abortions is tied up in court.

Fire

Part of the challenge is that the densely wooded ravines are difficult for firefighters to reach, Wight said. And when the wind picks up, the fire can spread quickly up those ravines.
The weather will likely make firefighters' work difficult again Tuesday with heat and strong winds. The National Weather Service predicts a high of 107 degrees in Valentine, which is about 20 miles west of the main wildfire. And winds will continue gusting up to 25 mph.

While a cold front is expected to move across the state and provide some relief, highs Wednesday will still be in the mid-90s. The front may also bring some rain, but the weather service says major storms aren't likely to develop near the fire. Plus, storms could also bring lightning and spark new fires.
Gov. Dave Heineman plans to make a second visit to the area Tuesday to survey the damage.
