Fans Flock To See Stewart At Huset's

BRANDON (AP) — A sell-out crowd showed up Saturday night to watch three-time NASCAR champion Tony Stewart race on the dirt track at Huset's Speedway near Brandon. The Argus Leader newspaper reports that some spectators were placed in the infield after the stands filled up. Stewart was leading the race with five laps to go when he spun to avoid a slower car. He finished 17th in the World of Outlaws event. It was the first time he had raced a sprint car in South Dakota.

Stewart started his career on dirt tracks in Indiana. He now makes select appearances at dirt tracks in addition to his NASCAR Sprint Cup schedule. He has raced at the track in West Fargo, N.D., several times in the past few years.

Celtics Hire Brad Stevens As Coach

BOSTON (AP) — Butler's historic Hinkle Fieldhouse couldn't compete with the Boston Garden and all those NBA championship banners hanging from its rafters. The Boston Celtics hired Brad Stevens away from the school he led to back-to-back NCAA title games, putting the 36-year-old coach in charge of their brand new rebuilding effort on Wednesday. Stevens had turned down offers from bigger college programs, but couldn't resist the lure of the NBA's most-decorated There are some brands in sports, and in the world of basketball the Celtics are one of those," Butler athletic director Barry Collier said in an on-campus news conference on Wednesday night. With aging stars Kevin Garnett and Paul Pierce on their way to the Brooklyn Nets, and Doc Rivers already coaching the Los Angeles Clippers, the Celtics have been trying to get younger. In Stevens, they have a mentor who is younger than Garnett and wasn't yet born when Bill Russell won his 11th NBA championship in 1969 — or even when John Havlicek added two more in the 1970s. It's the first time the Celtics have hired a college coach since Rick Pitino in 1997 and their first coach with no NBA experience of any kind since Alvin "Doggie" Julian, who was hired in 1948 and gave way to Red Auerbach two years later. Though he is young, I see Brad as a great leader who leads with impeccable character and a strong work ethic" Celtics general manager Danny Ainge said in a release. "His teams always play hard and execute on both ends of the court. Brad is a coach who has already enjoyed lots of success, and I look forward to working with him towards Banner 18."

ton and Ryan Newman are paired on one team. Fellow drivers Greg Biffle and 2011 Daytona 500 winner Trevor Bayne comprise another team. And three-time NASCAR champion Darrell Waltrip and former crew chief Larry McReynolds form the final team.

The teams have to maneuver an obstacle course while carrying items including tires and sand. The event will be treated like real NASCAR races, complete with driver introductions, the national anthem and a Victory Lane celebration that includes champagne and trophies.

I'm kind of proud of it. This fits NASCAR. This fits Daytona. Let's not just do a photo with gold-platted shovels. This just feels like NASCAR. "We're only going to do this one time in my lifetime, so we want to make sure we get it right." The redevelopment will give Daytona's aging grandstands a modern look and feel. It will include expanded entrances and a series of escalators and elevators to transport fans to three different concourse levels, each featuring spacious and strategically-placed social "neighborhoods" along the nearly mile-long frontstretch. Those 11 neighborhoods, each measuring the size of a football field, will allow fans to meet and socialize during events without ever missing any on-track action. The project also includes

International Speedway Corp. announced Wednesday that it will continue decreasing seating capacity at its racetracks to create more ticket demand. ISC will target seating that doesn't include sightlines to pit road and the opportunity for fans to take advantage of prerace events and track amenities. "There is simply too many seats in inventory at several facilities in our portfolio," ISC President John Saunders said during a conference call to announce ISC's second-quarter earnings. studying brain injuries in sports. Nebraska's brain center is connected by a 100-foot skywalk to the new Athletic Performance Lab, which will research, among other things, injury prevention and high-tech ways to maximize performance of athletes. CB3 and the performance lab will partner on some projects.

CB3's main attraction is a type of magnetic resonance imaging machine — known as a functional MRI — that tracks the brain's blood flow. It's hoped the $3 million scanner helps in the effort to better define what is and is not a concussion.

'There's no question it's going to move the dial forward," the NCAA's Hainline said. "The big, hoped-for dream would be, let's have a biomarker in brain imaging. If you're to the left of that, you're safe; if you're to the right of it, you're not. That's probably a few years out. But functional brain imaging and blood flow are going to be a very important part of that.' The MRI machine also can be used on game days to assess injuries of all kinds. Molfese said the sideline concussion assessment tool would be the first of what he hopes are many groundbreaking developments to come

"It would be routine," he said, "and they'd know within 10 minutes. Osborne said he's fascinated by the possibilities. He said suspected concussions were dealt with the same way throughout his football coaching career. The athletic trainer would hold up two or three fingers in front of the woozy player's face as he came off the field and ask him how many. "If you could come close," Osborne said, "they'd put you back in. That wasn't very effective.
