Jack Hoffman's Touchdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Little Jack Hoffman's touchdown run at the Nebraska spring game has won an ESPY for best moment.

Jack and his father, Andy, accepted the ESPY award Wednesday night at the Nokia Theatre in Los Angeles. The 8-year-old from Atkinson, Neb., has brain cancer. The video of his scoring scamper has been replayed on national TV and viewed more than 8 million times on YouTube.

Jack was 7 when he appeared on the Lincoln field late in the game on April 6. He took a handoff from quarterback Taylor Martinez and started left. But Martinez redirected him to the right so Jack could follow a wall of blockers, pumping his little legs down the field for a 69-yard touchdown run.

Players mobbed him and lifted him on their shoulders in triumph.

Krier, Tappers No-Hit Tabor

The Yankton Tappers not only celebrated its "Fan Appreciation Night" with free beer and hot dogs, it gave fans something special as well.

Tappers pitcher Trey Krier tossed a seven-inning no-hitter as Yankton won 10-0 over Tabor on Thursday at Yankton's Riverside Field.

Krier has tossed two other no-hitters in his career, both in 2010. A catcher, one of his most memorable highlights was catching Rick Hiltunen's perfect game in the 1978 state tournament at Madison.

His amateur career began after his sophomore year in high school, when the Larchwood amateur team's catcher was kicked off the team.

Active with baseball both on and off the field, he was a member of the Larchwood Baseball Board from 1975-2005, umpired youth games and attended the SDABA's annual winter meetings during his days as a player and manager.

begin in 1968 in his hometown of Pipestone (Minn.), but the South Dakota State University baseball alum spent the majority of his career as a member of the Renner Monarchs.

A talented all-around player, Sendelbach batted over .337 in his career and played on teams in South Dakota and Minnesota that won three state championships and finished second four times.

Often considered the "unofficial" captain on many of the teams he played on, the infielder earned team MVP honors, played on several all-star teams and earned All-Tourney honors at the South Dakota state tournament.

In addition to his offensive and defensive skills, his leadership, knowledge of the game and steady play were some of his biggest contributions to the amateur game.

The longevity of Chuck's career was greatly enhanced with the advent of senior baseball. He represented South Dakota on 11 teams that played in the Men's Senior Baseball World Series — two that won titles and three that finished second — and nine teams that played in the Roys Hobbs Senior Baseball Tournaments, including one champion.

Other career highlights include a six-hit performance in the 1983 state championship game, a 35-game hitting streak, 102 career home runs and turning 35 double plays in the 1977 season with his brother Chuck.

Sendelbach also was a member of South Dakota teams that won Men's Senior Baseball World Series titles in 1988 and 1993.
