USD Cross Country Releases Lickteig, Two From Parkston 2013 Schedule

VERMILLION — Two home meets and an early look at the Midwest Regional course in Ames, lowa, highlight the 2013 South Dakota cross country schedule released today by head coach Dan Fitzsimmons.

The slate begins Sept. 6 in Vermillion with the Don Baker Invitational and builds towards November's Summit League and NCAA regional championships.

"This schedule allows us to see good competition without racing too early before the big meets hit in November," said Fitzsimmons. "We will race against Nebraska, Creighton and Omaha on our home course and I know our team and our fans are excited for those meets.

In addition to the Don Baker Invitational, the Coyotes host the Tim Young Invitational Oct. 19. Sandwiched between the two home meets are the lowa State Invitational on Sept. 21 and the South Dakota State Classic on Oct. 4.

Fort Wayne hosts the Summit League Championships on Nov. 2. Iowa State hosts the NCAA regional Nov. 15. The Coyote men and women were runners up at the Summit a year ago. The men placed 12th at the NCAA Midwest Regional while the women finished 14th.

The USD men return six of seven runners from last year's team including senior Jeff Mettler, last year's Summit League runner up. The Coyote women will rely on five of their top eight from a year ago including three seniors and 2012 Summit League Newcomer of the Meet Amber Eichkorn

Minn. All-Star Joe Mauer

Welcomes Twins, Er, twins ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - If there is something

Joe Mauer knows well, it's twins. The Minnesota Twins catcher welcomed twin girls this week, the first children for he and wife Maddie.

Mauer left the team before Tuesday night's game against the Angels to fly home to Minnesota. He made it in time for the birth of Emily and Maren early Wednesday, according to Twins director of baseball communications and player relations Dustin Morse.

Mauer was placed on the paternity leave list before Wednesday's game. Catcher Drew Butera was recalled from Triple-A Rochester.

Butera, who spent the last three years as Mauer's backup, has been with Rochester all season, batting .215 in 79 at-bats after recovering from a broken left hand. Mauer, a six-time All-Star, played in 92 of the first 96 games until Tuesday.

it's a traditional organization and it needs to innovate as we all do, and I'm pretty optimistic that we do that," Delany added. "But I want us also to keep in mind why we're doing it and I think it's to make better connections between our athletes, the educational and the athletic experience.

Delany's top priorities for a restructured NCAA include a lifetime commitment to education, an examination of the time demands placed on athletes, the eligibility structure for at-risk students and an additional grant for fullscholarship athletes — a hotbutton issue for mid-major schools.

All the commissioners from the major conferences have pushed for a stipend for athletes that would add about $2,000 to an athletic scholarship to cover the full cost of attendance, but it could not be passed because smaller schools said they couldn't afford it.

"It's the right thing to do," said Delany, who played college basketball for North Carolina. "Whether that's 2,000, 3,000, or 4,000, I don't know, but we need to address that."

Delany also thinks the NCAA should do more to help at-risk students, without providing an exact definition of what he meant by the term. He proposed a year of residence before the four years of eligibility kicks in.

"I think everybody is in favor of giving people a shot," he said. "Everybody's in favor of raising standards and raising outcomes. But I think when you admit an atrisk student, you have to seriously consider the year of readiness.'

Also Wednesday:

—Delany provided a mixed review of NCAA President Mark Emmert, saying he had done some good things and also made some mistakes.

"Running the NCAA is a real challenge, and most of the problems that we confront today preceded Mark Emmert," he said. "So the fundamental challenges to institutions, conferences in the NCAA, were there before Mark ever walked into the door.

"If you look at our history in recruiting, we're typically a day late, a week late, a month late in potentially offering a young person," he said. "I know sometimes that frustrates our fans, but we're going to make sure when we offer a young man, that's someone we truly want to be a part of our football family.'

Northwestern's recruiting philosophy also heads off potential discipline problems.

"I think discipline begins with recruiting," Fitzgerald said. "The identification of a student athlete that fits your program in Evanston starts with that character evaluation.. We've got a set of questions that are married with the values of our program.'

owed billions of dollars, saying the NCAA allowed their likenesses to be used in video games without compensation.

"I don't think that the O'Bannon case represents the best interests of intercollegiate athletics," Delany said. "I don't know how it will be resolved. It will be litigated. And I think it will be litigated all the way to the Supreme Court, if the plaintiffs are successful. I don't think there's any compromise on that."
