

GriefShare Support Meetings Available

The death of a loved one is a powerful, disruptive experience for which we are never fully prepared. The after shock can turn our lives upside down. GriefShare is designed to give you the information and support you need to survive the tumult of grief.

GriefShare includes a DVD featuring some of the nation's foremost experts on grief recovery topics. Each session is combined with a grief support group discussion time that allows group participants to talk about the content of the seminar and about how they are dealing with the death of their loved one.

GriefShare which began on Monday, June 10, has changed the day to Sunday evenings at 7 p.m. for the rest of the session. Thirteen weekly support meetings will be held at Calvary Baptist Church, 2407 Broadway, Yankton, from 7-8:30 p.m. The group is open to any individual or couple in the community who has lost a loved one and feels they would benefit from the teaching and support this kind of group offers. You may begin to attend at any time and repeat the session as often as you wish.

If you have any questions about GriefShare, call Pastor Rick Slattery at Calvary Baptist Church at 605-665-5594. Or, you can stop by the church office at 2407 Broadway Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Church Jargon Is Misunderstood

BY REV. DON BARBALACE
Peace Presbyterian Church

I was reading a layperson's perspective in one of my denomination's newsletters and was jolted by the writer's statement that she has "watched with consternation as the church has drifted away from orthodoxy." I have grown accustomed to hearing misuse of theological terms like "conservative" and "liberal" by people who have no clue what they really mean, but the present quote reminded me that intelligent conversation is possible only when the participants understand the terms they use.

The term orthodox is commonly understood as "right belief" as opposed to error or heresy, but we need not be locked into a fixed set of "right" beliefs, especially regarding social issues. Rather, the Christian church is continually reforming itself. We stop evolving as a church only when we stop thinking, and then we are dead. Being "orthodox" is not a virtue.

"Conservative" is commonly used as if a person were conservative in all matters, financial, political, social, and theological, when in reality those things are all independent. A person may be politically or fiscally conservative and theologically liberal, or vice versa.

People are too complex to be neatly categorized by superficial labels, and so are the hot button issues that face our churches. We cannot dismiss an idea as not being "orthodox" just because it differs from the way we have been thinking. Many times over just more than a century, an unorthodox view has become mainstream. The Church, unfortunately, has repeatedly argued on the wrong side of numerous social issues including slavery, integration, and interracial marriage. You are no doubt thinking of another hot-button issue that is likely to change in the near future. Let us, please, be open to the idea that we may be wrong about today's "orthodoxy."

And, by the way, there is no "moderate" movement in theology. Rather, "liberal" and "conservative" in theology are distinct movements developed at the start of the 20th century when the nation was in turmoil over labor issues and so-called "progressives" who favored such radical ideas as labor unions and the right to strike. The "social gospel" was born. Some progressive churchmen of the day (and in those days they were men) were wrestling with issues of science versus religion. (Remember, the Scopes "monkey trial" was in 1925.) Those progressive churchmen took the radical view that truth is truth wherever you find it and were derisively called "modernists" by another group of churchmen who set out to conserve traditional religious beliefs, to prove the Bible true in every detail, and to find the historical Jesus. In so doing, they were dubbed "conservatives," in opposition to the modernists who were labeled as "liberal" and who to this day continue to affirm that all truth is God's truth and not to be feared.

Anthony of Padua, St. Thomas Aquinas, and St. Faustina Kowalska.

In addition, there will also be present a portion of the veil of Our Lady, as well as one of the largest remaining pieces of the True Cross in the world.

Those in attendance will be able to examine and venerate each relic. In the Church's history, many miracles and healings have been worked in the presence of relics, and many have been healed through this ministry.

Do not miss this opportunity. You are encouraged to bring your articles of devotion (such as rosaries, holy cards, etc.) and pictures of ill friends/family members which you will be able to touch to the reliquaries as a means of intercession.

Piano Concert Fundraisers Set For August

Fr. Tim Lange will play piano concerts benefiting Sacred Heart School. These will take place at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 4, at St. Benedict's Church and at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 11, at Sacred Heart Church.

These will be informal concerts attempting to compete with the fund-raising efforts of Fr. Mark Lichter and his priest friend who in late April pedaled from Yankton to North Dakota raising thousands of dollars for their schools. They endured wind, rain/snow to challenge them to reach their goal.
