Baseball A Game Of Eternal Optimism

That, though, is the nature of the game of baseball.

Baseball is a game where a successful hitter fails to get a hit seven out of 10 times. A successful team loses 40 percent of its games. It is a game that, because of its nature, requires that those around it must be optimists for the simple fact that, if one beats himself up after every failure, he'll beat himself to death before he even gets a chance to succeed.

Baseball is also a game where the "little guy" can beat the big team. Small-town Wynot or Freeman can beat big-town Yankton on a given day. The small-market Oakland Athletics can have the best team in the Majors. Every team gets 27 outs to prove its worth.

And that's what keeps baseball going in a town like Scotland, or like Lesterville when it was in a similar situation a couple of years ago. It isn't about dreams of going pro or even winning a state title, but the joy of coming to the park and playing a kids' game with the same excitement and enthusiasm that was there half a lifetime ago.

And it's why small towns latch onto their baseball teams. Because if their little small-town team can hang on, maybe their small town can hang on, too.

Clough made the ace on Hole No. 16. Golfing with him were Steve Weiland, Dan Orton and Rob Grossenburg

Joining USD was Denver and Fort Wayne. The award is open to any ITA program that has a cumulative team grade point average of 3.20 or above. All eligible student-athletes whose names appear on the NCAA eligibility form and have competed in one or more varsity matches must average into the GPA for the current academic year (including fall 2013 and spring 2014).

In order to earn ITÁ Scholar-Athlete status, a player must be a varsity letter winner, have a GPA of at least 3.50 for the current academic year and have been enrolled at their present school for at least two semesters.

USD, Denver and Fort Wayne combined to account for all 12 Summit League honorees.

with her secret sauce outside her Hough Avenue deli on the east side. She said the GOP convention and James would help bring much-needed cash into the city, although she called James a drama queen for the way he left back in 2010. But she'll take him back.

Just bring us a championship." she said.

John Dennison drove in from one of the far eastern suburbs to buy a season-ticket package, ready for the season to start and see James play side-by-side with Kyrie Irving, the first overall pick in 2011,

This is great for our area,' Dennison said.

The phone number for the Cavaliers' ticket office boasted of James' return in a recorded message but noted that singlegame tickets aren't yet available. The extension for season ticket inquiries, not surprisingly, rang busy.

Dave Nelson, 49, had just been wheeled into the recovery room at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland after knee surgery on Friday when his surgeon approached. Nelson said he doesn't remember what the doctor said about his knee, but recalled: "He said. 'More importantly, LeBron has come back to the Cavs.

This is where he can come to be great," Nelson said a few hours later. "You can go anywhere to win championships. But if he can do something like that in this city, he'll be remembered forever.

James' return had Cleveland Indians' slugger Nick Swisher fired up.

"I can't wait to meet him," Swisher said. "A guy like that, with the talent he has, singlehandedly that guy can win you a championship.'

Before the announcement, Gordon Hewitt, 67, and a buddy were headed into a suburban Cleveland theater to catch a movie. Hewitt said he hoped that when they emerged they would learn that James had indeed come home. A few hours later, Hewitt said he was elated and that James' heartfelt words about returning to Cleveland had done much to assuage his longstanding resentment.

Hewitt recalled childhood evenings on the front porch with his father listening to radio broadcasts of Indians games. Every year, Hewitt said, his optimistic father would
