Apple To Nix Apps That Tip Off Drunk Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — After pressure from four U.S. senators, Apple Inc. has said it will start rejecting iPhone applications that tip drivers off about police checkpoints for drunken driving.

Apple updated its app developer guidelines Wednesday to exclude such apps. On Thursday, some DUI apps were still available in the App Store, but Apple usually gives developers a chance to update their apps so they can conform to the new guidelines before booting them.

The apps often combine warnings about DUI checkpoints with warnings about speed traps and red-light cameras. Users of the applications help create the warnings by registering the locations.

An Apple spokesman had no comment on the change in the guidelines, and wouldn't say why the change was made.

Senators Harry Reid (D-Nev.), Charles E. Schumer (D-N.Y.), Frank R. Lautenberg (D-N.J.), and Tom Udall (D-N.M.) asked Apple, Research In Motion Ltd., the maker of the BlackBerry, and Google Inc. to remove DUI-avoidance apps in March. RIM complied, but Google refused.

Google runs an application store for phones that use its Android software. The company places far fewer restrictions on application developers than Apple does.

Curry Debuts As 'Today' Co-Anchor

NEW YORK (AP) — After 14 years as the understudy, Ann Curry is in the big chair now at NBC's "Today" show.

She had her first day Thursday as co-anchor with Matt Lauer on television's top-rated morning show. Her predecessor, Meredith Vieira, had an on-air going-away party Wednesday.

Curry has been on the show since 1997 as the regular newsreader, and has filled in as co-host dozens of times.

She referred to that in her opening, saying, "I'm Ann Curry, in for I guess nobody this morning — me, myself and I. It's nice to be able to say that, isn't it?"

Lauer welcomed her, saying she had already been on the show so long that "it's a little bit like a member of the family moving to a new seat at the table."

Wheel

When Doug allowed her to approach the Ferris wheel, Judy found an 8-foot teddy bear in the seat. The stuffed animal was wearing a sign asking if Judy would marry Doug.

"I turned around, and there (Doug) was standing up on a step holding a ring," Judy said. "It was very, very sweet."

Obviously, Judy said, "Yes." How could she say no to an 8-foot teddy bear?

Since they were getting married on Memorial Day weekend, there was no question they would return to the Ferris wheel, Judy said.

"That was part of the fun," Judy said. "Doug is such a kid at heart, and we had to continue the tradition."

This time, the couple wasn't alone for the ride. The entire wedding party got in on the fun.

However, "Skippy," the aforementioned teddy bear, was not on hand for the celebration.

"We decided not to bring him today, because I want to keep him nice," Judy said. "He's pretty huge to carry around, so he doesn't really get to go anyplace."

Everyone was in good spirits, as the wedding had gone smoothly.

"I think it went perfect," Doug said. "It was the perfect start for a perfect marriage."

Judy added, "The wedding was beautiful. It is a nice day, and we're joining the two families."

The second marriage for both Doug and Judy, they are uniting not only themselves by Doug's three girls and one boy, as well as Judy's two girls.

What's next for the couple and the Ferris wheel? Not even they know yet.

"It will have to be a yearly event," Doug said. "We'll have to figure it out."

Would the couple recommend that other couples ride the Ferris wheel on their first dates?

"It worked for me," Doug said. "I'm not making any guarantees it will work for anybody else."
