DEAR ABBY: I have been dating "Vernon" for six months. We were great together from the day we met. It was like we'd known each other forever and could talk for hours. We talked every night and it was amazing.

Two weeks ago, I was raped by a man I thought was a friend. When I told Vernon, he was shocked and didn't know how to handle it. I was hoping we could get past it, but two nights ago he said he can no longer be intimate with me because he feels like he is doing something wrong, or I won't like it. He said he loves talking to me and still wants to be friends.

We have continued talking every night, but it is hard for me to do as just his friend. Do you think he will be able to get over these feelings and be with me again? Should I remain friends when I have feelings for him? — WANTS MORE IN MINNESOTA

DEAR WANTS MORE: If you haven't already reported the rape to the police, do it now. The man who did this to you needs to be taken out of circulation so he won't harm another woman.

Unless he can stop treating you as though you are "untouchable," you should NOT continue the "friendship," because what he is doing is distancing himself when you need his support the most.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I became engaged to a very special man. We have decided to be married during a weeklong cruise we have taken the past two years. We knew some family members might not be able to attend for financial reasons, so we chose to invite only two close friends as witnesses and not have our families there.

My family is OK with our decision, but his family

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 7, 2013:

This year you attract new people. Stop and think before you confide in someone and tell him or her things that normally would take you years to reveal. Remember that trust is a gift, and time is on your side. If you are single, this person could be someone you might start to date. Still, use caution. If you are attached, you notice how often you and your sweetie are on different planes. You don't need to do anything about it -- just be aware. GEMINI understands you as if you were born in the same family. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dy-

 $\star \star \star$  You might not be aware of the confusion that surrounds you. You feel centered and focused. Use caution with all your energy, as others simply are not on the same page. Make it a point to really listen to a friend or loved one. Confirm all meetings. Tonight: Count on intensity.

TAURUS (APRIL 20-MAY 20)

★★★ Whatever a boss or parent says, he or she is not pleased. They have been calling him constantly and telling him to change our plans and accommodate them, and frankly, we are sick of it. We know why they're upset, but at the same time this is our day and they should respect our decision.

How can we get them to be more understanding and less disrespectful about how we want our wedding? Please help, because we don't know what else to say to them. — SOON TO BE NEWLYWEDS

DEAR SOON TO BE NEWLYWEDS: It appears your fiance's family considers weddings to be more about the joining of families and less about the wishes of the individuals involved. They expected to be included, and are hurt because they weren't.

A way to explain your decision would be to make it less about yourselves and more about the fact that you knew some family members could not afford to make this trip, so you plan to have a reception when you return and include everybody.

DEAR ABBY: Next month my husband and I are leaving our 18-year-old son home alone overnight for the first time. We have good neighbors who will keep an eye on things. Although we trust our son, I feel we should let his 16-year-old girlfriend's parents know he will have the house to himself for the night.

I have never met them and don't want to alarm them by calling out of the blue. Do you think I should call them? — WHAT SHOULD I DO?

DEAR WHAT: Yes. Call, introduce yourself, and suggest that because your teenagers are involved that you meet in person "sometime soon." And while you're making conversation, casually mention that you will be leaving town and your son will be alone overnight for the first time. If you had a 16-year-old daughter, wouldn't YOU want to know?

plans. Consider this behavior a manifestation of this person's confusion. Tonight: Where your friends are.

VIRGO (AUG. 23-SEPT. 22)

 $\star \star \star$  You might decide to take the lead in a project, as you'll note a theme of chaos running throughout the day. Investigate what could be the root of this issue. Consider that you might not be hearing others clearly. The haze surrounds you, too! Tonight: Celebrate the weekend.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23-0CT. 22)

★★★★ Listen to news with a bit of cynicism. Your sixth sense kicks in when you sense that something is off or not adding up. Confirm facts and ask questions, as your sources might not realize that they are giving out distorted information. Tonight: Try reading the tea leaves.

SCORPIO (OCT. 23-NOV. 21)

★★★ You'll want to rethink a personal matter. This could be difficult, as someone might refuse to leave you alone. Trust that the right moment will appear, perhaps in a few days. By then, you will have new information. Tonight: Grab your favorite person, and go celebrate the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 22-DEC. 21)

 $\star \star \star \star$  You might think that you have solid plans, but so many invitations will appear that you could need to make an adjustment. Whatever you are doing, make sure that all parties are on the same page. Confirm meeting times and place just in case. Tonight: Be reasonable.

means. How this person delivers the message might change, but the words will remain the same. Don't be surprised if you witness a minor display of frustration. The smart Bull will say little. Tonight: Maintain a sense of humor.

GEMINI (MAY 21-JUNE 20)

 $\star \star \star \star$  Others could associate your dynamic personality with many different experiences. Should you choose to reveal your fiery side, for example, people might link you to high-energy situations. Do not take any comments personally. Tonight: TGIF! Start your weekend now!

CANCER (JUNE 21-JULY 22)

 $\star \star \star$  If you can take the day off, do. Take a walk by the water in order to center yourself. Choose this type of experience, and you'll bypass much of the confusion that marks today. Use caution with others, and be aware that their words speak of the moment. Tonight: Keep your distance.

LEO (JULY 23-AUG. 22)

★★★ Recognize your limits, as you start what you think is a very normal day. Apparently, others already seem to have bypassed their work schedule for Friday plans. The reason might not be as important as you recognizing the issue. Tonight: Do whatever makes you feel good.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 20-FEB. 18)

★★★★ While others might act confused -- or in some cases, ornery -- you are caught up in your efforts of pleasing a loved one. You will have to decide what should be done and what should be left for a rainy day. A child could make you laugh. Tonight: Keep spontaneity a high priority.

PISCES (FEB. 19-MARCH 20)

 $\star \star \star \star$  Much is likely to wash right over you, which will prevent you from seeing clearly now. You might not want to deal with what is coming up. Use caution around a display of anger. You might be far more vulnerable than you are aware. Tonight: Home is where the heart is.
