their contributions to the exercise. During its stay, the 842nd took advantage of the archery complex's housing, air conditioning, showers and television.

"I know everybody was very appreciative for everything you were able to do for us while we were down here," Uschuk said. "All those extra things was the reason we were able to be so productive."

Work on the $1.12 million project will be completed throughout the year by other members of the National Guard. With an expected completion date of June 2014, the addition will feature three new NFAA field ranges and an NFAA outdoor target range. It will include machine-made hills and valleys, new roads, a comfort station and concession stand, archery shooting towers, improvements to the complex's fishing pond, seeding of grass and the planting of several hundred new trees.

The NFAA will debut the new ranges when it hosts the NFAA Outdoor National Championships and the IFAA World Field Championships in the summer of 2014.

As part of Tuesday's ceremony, Cull and the National Guard members offered tours of the project to the officials that were present.

"It was great to see what is back there," Wenande said. "It was quite a little trip, and I look forward to spending more time out there."

Michels added that he was impressed with the amount of work the soldiers accomplished in such a short period of time.

"It always amazes me — with the things I've been exposed to in my career not only in the military, but also with the flood fight — how much can be done as long as you plan and have people who are intelligent, like you had with this exercise," he said.

dants in weighing evidence and arguments and in rendering verdicts, Balvin said.

"These are two separate cases on trial at the same time," she said.

The defendants are represented by court-appointed attorneys, according to the clerk's office. Yankton attorney Creighton Thurman represents Kimberly Johnson, while Menno attorney Ken Bertsch represents Charles Johnson.

The prosecution is represented by Deputy Attorney General Katie Mallery and Bon Homme County state's attorney Lisa Rothschild.

The trial has been postponed for nearly a year.

The Johnsons were scheduled to stand trial last August in Tyn-dall, but the judge granted a defense motion for a continuance. In addition, Charles Johnson made a motion to allow the hiring of an expert witness, according to court papers.

The trial was rescheduled to last January, then further delayed to April and May before finally beginning this week.

The state Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) handled the case.

Warrants were issued for the Johnsons, and they were arrested in April 2012 by the Knox County, Neb., sheriff's office. The Johnsons each posted $5,000 cash bond and were released. The Johnsons waived extradition at a Knox County hearing and were transferred to South Dakota for further court proceedings.

Both defendants remain free on bond during the trial, Balvin said.

Area School Districts Pick Up New Board Members

BY RANDY DOCKENDORF
randy.dockendorf@yankton.net

Tuesday marked election day in three area South Dakota school districts, with voters deciding races for Viborg-Hurley, Irene-Wakonda and Wagner school districts.

The follow are the election results, with each district picking up a new board member.

• IRENE-WAKONDA: Russell Buchanan won the seat for a three-year term from Representation Area 5, finishing first in the three-person field with 70 votes. The other candidates, Jerald Hinseth and Kris Sees, finished with a respective 47 and 37 votes.

A new board member was guaranteed, as incumbent George Sees did not run again after serving 19 years, according to school business manager Pam Rudd.

In the other race, Mike Logue ran unopposed for the seat from Representative Area 1.

• VIBORG-HURLEY: As it begins its second year of existence, the Viborg-Hurley school district will receive a new school board member.

In Tuesday's election, challenger Charles E. Kludt defeated incumbent Gene Larsen 113-71 for a three-year term as an at-large board member. The race was the only school board contest this year.

Larsen had been elected to a one-year term when the Viborg and Hurley school districts consolidated last year, according to Viborg-Hurley school business manager Wanda Kost.

As part of the merger plan, the terms of the five Viborg-Hurley school board members were staggered. Larsen won the one-year term for the at-large board member, who can come from anywhere in the district. The seat now becomes a three-year term.

The Viborg-Hurley school district is divided into two areas of representation. The board consists of two seats from the North Area, two seats from the South Area, and one at-large seat.

All Viborg-Hurley patrons can vote for the at-large seat. When it comes to the North Area and South Area seats, voters can only cast ballots for candidates from the area where they reside.

Steve Rabern and Jim Gerdes are serving respective two- and three-year terms from the North Area, while Denise Miller and Peggy Mach are serving respective two- and three-year terms from the South Area.

• WAGNER: Newcomer Mike Bruning and incumbents Greg Krcil and Chad Kreeger claimed the three three-year seats on the Wagner school board. They are filling at-large positions.

Bruning topped the field with 283 votes, followed by Krcil with 276 and Kreeger with 212. The rest of the field saw George Langdeaux finish with 141 votes and Jill Denker-Lindstrom with 55.

A new face was guaranteed on the board, as incumbent Mike Denker chose not to run for re-election.

Tuesday's election drew 8.4 percent voter turnout with 325 ballots cast, according to school business manager Lory DuFRAIN.
