The Book Shelf

Books Serve Up Monstrous Fun

"The Baby That Roared," by Simon Puttock, illustrated by Nadia Shireen, Nosy Crow (Candlewick Press), 2012. 32 pages.; "I Loathe You," by David Slonim, Aladdin Books (Simon & Schuster), 2012. 24 pages.

BY PAT HANSEN

What could be more fun than monsters? Especially baby monsters? Here are two books with two very different baby monsters.

"I Loathe You" is a takeoff of the standard sweet picture book where a young child asks his parent how much they love him. In those books the parent proceeds to tell the child she loves him to the moon and back or more than strawberry shortcake. Little Monster in this book asks Big Monster not how much Big loves him, but how much Big loathes him.

Big Monster throws out a couple things to let Little know just how much Big loathes him-like more than garbage in a dump or splinters sticking in his rump. Not to be outdone, Little says he loathes Big even more than bellyaches, which impresses Big. Big comes back with lovely things like fuzzy mold on cheese or lobsters pinching him-Big loathes Little even more than all of these.

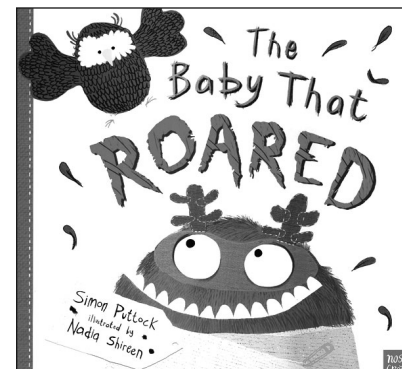

But then Little throws in a curve-what if he accidentally says "please" or "thank you" sometime? Or what if he stops chewing chairs? Will Big still love him?

The baby monster in "The Baby That Roared" is a bit more, well, monstrierly than Little Monster in the first book.

Mr. and Mrs. Deer don't have a baby to read too and cuddle. One day a baby shows up on their doorstep. Mrs. Deer cuddles the baby right away, even though Mr. Deer thinks the baby looks a bit odd. As soon as Mrs. Deer put it into bed, it lets out a loud "ROOARRR!" They try to feed it but it doesn't want any of the food they offer.

So they call wise Uncle Duncan, sure that he'll know what to do with the baby. When he gets there he advises them to feed the baby warm milk. When they come back with the warm milk, Uncle Duncan has disappeared ...

When they notice an odor coming from the baby, they call Auntie Agnes who comes right over. She promptly sends Mr. and Mrs. Deer out for diapers. But when they return with the diapers, Auntie Agnes has disappeared too ...

These picture books are for ages 4-7, but adults will enjoy reading them to their own little monsters. The illustrations are fun, the ending to Loathe is reassuring, and the ending to Roared is clever. All in all, both are monstrously enjoyable books.

Summer Reading Fun Continues

BY KATHY JACOBS

Yankton Community Library

The Yankton Community Library's summer reading program is in full swing! More than 600 children and teens have registered and are attending programs, reading books and collecting prizes. It's not too late to register. Stop at the library or visit our web site to register online.

"Dig Into Reading!" is the children's theme. Join us for our three weekly story times as they feature new stories, activities and crafts each session. Story times are Monday at 6:30 p.m.; and Wednesday and Thursday 10:15 a.m.

During the week of July 1, the theme is "Underground Animals." How many can you name? Join us and learn all about them.

The week of July 8, the theme is "Under Construction" with a focus on large vehicles used in all types of work. On July 11, we'll fill the parking lot with construction vehicles and give kids the opportunity to "Touch A Truck."

On Monday, July 8, our last featured entertainer will be Phil Baker as he presents a free family concert at the Riverside Amphitheatre beginning at 6:30 p.m. You won't want to miss this great time.

"Egypt" is the July 15 theme with all roads leading to Cairo. Join us on our travels.

The last week, July 22, our theme is "Shopping." It's time to spend those book bucks!! Please note that the Treasure Shoppe is open until 5 p.m. on Saturday, July 27, but book bucks can be redeemed between now and then during regular library hours.

On Monday, July 22, there will be a free swim at Memorial Pool from 6:30-8:30 p.m., for summer reading participants who have read at least 500 minutes. You will need a reading ticket from the library that verifies your 500 minutes for free admission.

Family Movie Night continues on July 2, 9 and 16, with all performances beginning at 5:30 p.m. Movies are "Hoot," "Spiderwick Chronicles" and "Treasure Buddies." Families are welcome to bring snacks.

We have several adult events planned for July with the theme of "Groundbreaking Reads."

We continue to add to our reading list. The complete list can be found on our web site. As soon as you have read seven books and your punch card is full, return it to the library for a small prize and entry into our grand prize drawing. The reading segment of our adult program runs through Aug. 2.

On July 9, we are holding a Composting class at 6:30 p.m. with presenters from the Missouri Valley Master Gardeners. Learn how to build your own compost pile as well as how to correctly deal with discards from your kitchen.

Join us in the Hy-Vee classroom at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 16, as Chef Staci presents "Tuber Tasting." We'll enjoy a cooking demonstration, samples of all foods cooked, a glass of wine, and recipes to take home. This event is limited to 30 participants and tickets can be purchased only at the library.

Our final presentation of the summer is entitled "Digging Out from Underneath Your Clutter" with Carol Christensen as our guest speaker. This program begins at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, July 22.

Readers Anonymous book club will discuss "Song in Ordinary Time" by Mary McGarry Morris on Tuesday, July 9. This club, which is always open to new members, meets the second Tuesday of each month, at 1 p.m.

Between the Lines book club will discuss "The Runaway Quilt" by Jennifer Chiverini, on July 16. Joyce Brunken will present "Quilts and the Underground Railroad." This book club, which meets on the third Tuesday of each month at 5:30 p.m., is open to new members as well.

We collected 52 boxes of cereal during our June Food for Fines. We are collecting ketchup and mustard July 13-20, with all donations going to the Contact Center.

Are you traveling and in need of books on CD, downloadable books or movies? Don't forget to make the library one of your stops as you plan your departure or download books on your electronic device through "South Dakota Titles to Go ..." which can be accessed through the library's website.

Friends of the Library is holding their monthly book sale on Saturday, July 6, from 10 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Friends is always happy to accept gently used books for their sales.

The library will close on July 3 at 5 p.m. for the holiday and will reopen at 9 a.m. on Friday, July 5.

Did you know that in 2012, the library's meeting room was used 558 times for a total of 1,023 1/2 hours? Our study room was used 349 times for a total of 539 1/2 hours.

You can contact the library at 605-668-5275 or e-mail me at kjacobs@sdlm.net. View us online at <http://ycllib.sdlm.net>, visit us on Facebook by searching Yankton Community Library, or follow us on Twitter @ YanktonLibrary.

Everharts Star At Hay Country Jamboree July 6

GAYVILLE — Iowa musician Bob Everhart made six albums on the legendary Folkways label, famous for its recordings of the most important folk artists in America, and was an early pioneer in the Branson, Mo., musical scene, leading the shows at Silver Dollar City.

Everhart and his wife Sheila will join John and Susan McNeill and the Wiedrich Brothers at Gayville Hall on Saturday, July 6, at 8 p.m. for the venue's monthly musical variety show, "The Hay Country Jamboree."

Every Jamboree features three or more musical acts on stage together trading songs and humor, according to producer Doug Sharples. The shows are two-hours long, including a short intermission midway, and are presented in an alcohol-free, family-friendly setting.

Everhart was a regular performer at the "Louisiana Hayride" and was the host for seven years of a public television show he helped create, "Old Time Country Music." In 1976, he founded the National Old Time Country Music and Bluegrass Festival, now staged in LeMars, which draws thousands annually to western Iowa and celebrates its 38th year in August. He and Sheila have performed in more than 30 countries, becoming ambassadors for America's old-time music around the world.

The McNeills, who have performed together since the 1970s, were inducted into the South Dakota Country Music Hall of Fame last year, and have been Gayville Hall's country music hosts since 2001.

The teenaged brothers Ashur and Dawson Wiedrich of Wakonda have been harmonizing together since childhood. Self-taught musicians, they accompany themselves on guitar and drums respectively and will be making their first appearance at the Jamboree.

Gayville Hall is located at 502 Washington Street in Gayville. Call 605-267-2859 for ticket information.
