SPORTS DIGEST

Cole Named USD Volleyball Asst.

/ERMILLION — South Dakota head volleyball coach Leanne Williamson has named Michelle Cole as assistant coach for the Coyotes. Cole comes to South Dakota after being an assistant coach at Azusa Pacific University, a NCAA Division II school in Azusa, Calif., last season.

Cole helped APU to a 26-11 record and a National Christian College Athletic Association championship game appearance last season. Cole spent one season at APU, helping the Cougars improve on a 22-10 record in 2012 and to a fifth-place finish in the PacWest with a 13-7 conference record. Cole played Division I volleyball at Texas A&M where she was a four-year starter, helped the Aggies to two Elite Eight appearances and earned first-team All-Big 12 honors during her senior season in 2002. She went on to play professionally for the Avila Volleyball Club in Avila, Spain, from 2004-05

The Coyotes are coming off a 19-13 record and a Summit League Tournament appearance last season

"tempo," according to Goter. Shot Clock

B schools, and as Duffek said he believes, such schedules present an "interesting" change.

"You could play Thursday in an A school, have a shot clock, and then the next night play in Avon and not have a shot clock," he said. "That'll be an adjustment, I think."

If a Class B school is playing an A or AA school and there is a shot clock available, it must be used. And if a Class B school plays in an A gym, a shot clock would be used.

As far as the actual oncourt adjustment is concerned, Duffek said coaches and players deserve credit for their ability to adapt. "I think we underestimate our coaches and kids in times like those," he said. Where the shot clock could impact the game is in the Smaller teams with ballhandling guards could had a "huge advantage" with no shot clock, he said, because they could keep the ball away from bigger teams — and therefore. run out the clock. Now that will be neutralized," Goter said. "They cannot monopolize the ball.

'There isn't any other sport where you can stall," he added. "Gymnastics, volleyball and football have time limits, so I think a shot clock evens things out a little.'

Cost has also b sistent point of concern for Class A schools, particularly with the clocks themselves, but finding — and training someone at the scorer's table to operate the shot clock.

In Vermillion, Huska estimated that the cost is somewhere near $10,000 between both gyms, but he added that it was a "needed expense."

Duffek said he understands such a concern.

"Unfunded mandate is something we hear quite a bit of, and that has a tendency to get people paying attention," Duffek said. "But we'll be ready to go.

As part of the shot clock implementation for Class A schools, the SDHSAA leaves it up to the schools whether or not to use a shot clock for subvarsity games.

In Wagner, every high school team will use the shot clock, Goter said.

"In my opinion, there's no reason not have those kids get used to it at the younger levels," he said.

Class AA schools started using the shot clock back in 2008, and as Goter believes, it has had a positive effect.

'When I talk to AA people. they said it cleaned up the game," he said. "When you watch the NCAA, the last three minutes (of a game) isn't a foul fest. It's strategy; it's playing good defense.
