Successful Archery Bid Proves 'If You Build It, They Will Come'

For as fast as the sport of archery has grown in Yankton over the past couple years, it's about to explode within the next 12 months. You have likely heard the news that Yankton was awarded the bid for the 2015 World Archery Youth Championships. It will bring approximately 600 archers from 60 countries to our town for one full week. It's easy to see this as "just another archery event," but make no mistake: This will be one of the biggest — from an international perspective — sporting events the state of South Dakota will ever host. And that's not an exaggeration. Think about it for a second: What other event in our state's history would have this kind of global impact? What other event will be viewed online by millions of people across the world? The answer is none. Now, if you look at it this way, the competitors to Yankton next summer will not be the top professionals and Olympic hopefuls we've become accustomed to seeing. But still, these are some of the best youth archers from a number of states across the world — and going by past experience watching youth archers, they're still pretty darn good. There will be a lot to get done by those involved between now and next July, but the vision displayed by the folks over at the National Field Archery Association (stop out if you haven't visited) would show you they're up to the task. It's no small feat to beat out Mexico City — which Yankton did in its bid to host the event. In thinking about the magnitude of this event on Wednesday, I kept going back to the famous sports movie line: "If you build it, they will come." Remember that one? Well, this is the perfect example of that on the local stage. It's not a crime to dream big; to envision your little town of 15,000 people hosting one of your sport's biggest events in the world. There's no harm in trying. Go big or go home, right? That's been the motto of the NFAA since it relocated its national headquarters to Yankton. And it's worth everyone's attention to take stock of just what they've accomplished in a few short years.

SDSU Women's Basketball Promotes Jewett, Adds Linn

BROOKINGS — South Dakota State women's basketball coach Aaron Johnston announced the promotion of Mike Jewett to associate head coach and named Haylie Linn director of basketball operations. Jewett, who spent the last two seasons as a Jackrabbit assistant coach, enters his third season with the women's basketball program. Linn joins the Jackrabbit program after spending two years as the graduate assistant for the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee women's basketball program. A Fremont native, Jewett has coached at the collegiate level throughout the Midwest for 20 years. Prior to returning to coaching with the Jackrabbits, Jewett served as head coach at Southwest Minnesota State from 2006-10. The Mustangs improved their win total each of his four seasons on the bench, compiling a 15-12 record his final season. His career record as a head coach stands at 110-85, including a three-year run at Franklin College (Ind.). Jewett began his coaching career as a student and volunteer assistant at Augustana (S.D.) from 1992-97. He was elevated to a full-time assistant in 1997 before heading to Franklin in 2001. Jewett returned to the North Central Conference as an assistant coach at St. Cloud State (Minn.), where he helped guide the Huskies to back-to-back NCAA Division II Elite Eight appearances in 2005 and 2006. A Madison, Wis., native, Linn transferred after her sophomore season at Indiana and played two years at the University of Toledo where she was an Academic All-MAC team recipient and earned the 2011-12 Roy & Gail Hummel Scholarship, awarded each year to women's basketball player with the highest GPA. As a senior for the Rockets, Linn appeared in all 34 games, making 28 starts at guard, and averaged 7.5 points, 4.1 rebounds, 2.6 assists and 0.7 steals in 28.7 minutes per game. She also participated in the Women's Basketball Coaches Association's "So You Want To Be A Coach" program in conjunction with 2012 NCAA Women's Final Four in Denver, Colo. The Jackrabbit women's basketball program, which has averaged 23 wins over the last 10 seasons, returns nine letterwinners and three starters off last season's Summit League regular-season title team.
