Alumni Games Bring Former YHS Soccer Players Back

BY JEREMY HOECK jeremy.hoeck@yankton.net

Though she joked later that she forgot how much running was involved, Nealy Pesicka was pleasantly surprised by how much she missed the game of soccer.

And many of her fellow Yankton High School alumni said they felt the same way.

Pesicka, a 2010 graduate, was one of 14 women to take part in Friday night's inaugural alumni soccer games at Lewis & Clark Soccer Park. A men's game, with nearly 30 players, followed.

"It was an awesome idea,' the 23-year-old Pesicka said later. "I thought it'd be fun to play again, especially since it's been five years. Which is hard to believe.'

That was partly the idea for the first-ever games, according to Yankton Youth Soccer Association (YYSA) president Deb Lillie: To give those former players one last chance to see the field.

Getting the word out for the first year was difficult, but it's awesome that we had this many want to play," Lillie varsity and junior varsity said, while watching the first half of the men's game.

"It's really exciting for the parents, too. We heard a couple say that they wanted to see their kids play one more time."

The goal is to make the games an annual event, on the Friday night preceding the Yankton Youth Soccer Invitational, Lillie said.

Even for the first year, however, players said they were shocked with the turnout.

"I was surprised to see this many show up," said

2013 YHS graduate Zach Benjamin, who added that he would "definitely" play again in the future.

The future was another key undercurrent for the games. Last month, the Yankton School Board decided to sanction high school soccer, which will allow YHS to field teams beginning this fall. That certainly played a role in garnering interest for Friday night's games, according to 2013 graduate Brianna Newman.

'I think it shows that Yankton does love soccer, that we care about it," Newman said.

Alumni players had to register through the South Dakota Adult Soccer Association as a 3-day player, for $15. "It's all for a good cause,"
