Miles' New Deal Has Bonuses For

Big Ten Title, NCAA Berth

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska men's basketball coach Tim Miles' new contract also has changes in how he earns certain bonuses.

The athletic department released the contract to reporters on Monday. It was previously announced that the contract would extend through the 2019-20 season and that Miles would be paid just over $2 million this year.

Miles' new bonus structure calls for him to earn $100,000 for a Big Ten regular-season or tournament championship. His NCAA tournament bonuses remain the same, starting at $150,000 for the Cornhuskers earning a bid.

No longer will Miles receive bonuses for winning 20 games, finishing in the top four of the Big Ten, being coach of the year, making the semifinals of the Big Ten tournament or playing in the NIT.

South American Official Says

2016 Copa America In 'Question'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — South American soccer's second most powerful official says the bribery scandal surrounding FIFA puts in "question" next year's Centennial Copa America tournament scheduled to be played in the United States.

Jose Luis Meisner, the secretary general of the South American governing body CONMEBOL, told radio in Buenos Aires: "Today one has to question the possibility of playing this tournament."

Meisner said a main stumbling block was that Jeffrey Webb, head of CONCACAF — the governing body North America Central America and the Caribbean — was being held by Swiss authorities in the bribery scandal.

Next year's Centennial Copa America is to feature 10 South American teams and six from CONMEBOL.

UAB Pres.: University Bringing

Football Back In 2016

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — UAB President Ray Watts said Monday he is bringing the football program back as early as 2016, reversing a decision to shut it down because it was too expensive.

Watts cited renewed financial commitment from supporters, students and the city as reasons for the change of heart.

He said donors have pledged to make up the projected $17.2 million deficit over the next five years if football is restored. Watts told The Associated Press he decided on Monday morning to reverse the earlier decision after meetings with UAB supporters continued through the weekend.

"The biggest single difference is that we now have tangible commitment for additional support that we never had before," Watts said at a news conference.

In addition to reinstating football, Watts said Monday that he was also bringing back bowling and rifle. The study commissioned by the university was based on the programs being brought back in 2016. However, new athletic director Mark Ingram stopped short of guaranteeing 2016, saying only that the goal is to bring football back as soon as possible.

Watts cut the programs last December after UAB commissioned a report saying it would cost $49 million over five years to field a competitive football program, generating both a groundswell of criticism for the decision and a rallying of financial support for the Blazers program.

The president said UAB has dropped an indoor practice facility from the equation since the initial report, and has raised about 10 percent of the estimated $12.5 million to $14.5 million needed for a turf practice field and new fieldhouse.
