making its second World Cup appearance; it finished in 14th in 2011 in Germany. Colombia had never won a match in the sport's premier tournament until the upset of France.

The second-ranked Americans finished on top of the so-called Group of Death, with victories over Australia and Nigeria and a 0-0 tie with Sweden.

China, the Americans' next opponent, has played in six World Cups, but missed out four years ago. The Steel Roses have never won a title, but they made the final in 1999, losing memorably to the United States on penalty kicks at the Rose Bowl.

him to where he was at the end of the year, and we'll continue to try to do the same with who we take at the No. 1 pick," Saunders said after the Wolves won the lottery.

Taylor said after missing on high draft picks like Derrick Williams, Wesley Johnson and Jonny Flynn in recent seasons, finding a motivated player who was hungry to improve was one of the top priorities in making the decision.

"I just think in the past we had some players who had a great college career but didn't step it up afterwards," Taylor said. "We have to be really cautious that doesn't happen to us. For us to win, we have to have some people like KG, who was just never satisfied with how good he was and always wanted to be better."

Taylor, of course, was referring to veteran Kevin Garnett, who returned to the Timberwolves in a midseason trade in February and is expected to sign another contract in July.

To maybe possibly even play with him would be a great experience if I'm given the opportunity, the privilege and the honor," Towns said.

limited to those causes.

About eight years ago, the little track where it all began was in danger of being taken over by Sacramento County and repurposed. Needing about $50,000 to keep it open, the Cracker Jack Alumni Association got an assist from one of its most famous former racers.

Now known as the Roy Hayer Memorial Speedway, it is operating on a 99-year lease and is in no danger of closing. It's also very much the way Gordon remembered. "It's funny how much it's changed, and how little it's changed," Gordon said. "It seemed so much bigger to me back then. The tower is the same, other than the air conditioning that's been added. But there's very few significant changes.

When it was time to race, Gordon allowed daughter Ella to wave the flag above the speedway as son Leo looked on. Both children have their own quarter-midget cars, but only 8-year-old Ella has turned laps. Four-year-old Leo needs to get a little bit older before Gordon and his wife, Ingrid, are ready to put him in the car.

"You know, it's what I did as a kid and it became my career and I want them to experience it, too," Gordon said. "They can take it wherever they want to take it."

When it was time to leave he had another stop at his old middle school in Vallejo, then a birthday party for Ella before the family headed off to a camping trip in Vancouver — Gordon again found it to be difficult to control his emotions.

He looked around, said his goodbyes, soaked it all in for a minute.

"I try to hold back, but I don't have that switch that turns it off and on when a moment affects me," he said. "Being here, having my parents here, seeing it come full circle and have my kids here, it's emotional."
