Database Can Crack Missing Person Cases

BY STEVE KARNOWSKI
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A new online database promises to crack some of the nation's 100,000 missing persons cases and provide answers to desperate families, but only a fraction of law enforcement agencies are using it. The clearinghouse, dubbed NamUs (Name Us), offers a quick way to check whether a missing loved one might be among the 40,000 sets of unidentified remains that languish at any given time with medical examiners across the country. NamUs is free, yet many law enforcement agencies still aren't aware of it, and others aren't convinced they should use their limited staff resources to participate.

Janice Smolinski hopes that changes — and soon. Her son, Billy, was 31 when he vanished five years ago. The Cheshire, Conn., woman fears he was murdered, his body hidden away.

She's now championing a bill in Congress, named "Billy's Law" after her son, that would set aside more funding and make other changes to encourage wider use of NamUs. Only about 1,100 of the nearly 17,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide are registered to use the system, even though it already has been hailed for solving 16 cases since it became fully operational last year.

As these cases become more well known, as people learn about the successes of NamUs, more and more agencies are going to want to be part of it," said Kristina Rose, acting director of the National Institute of Justice at the Justice Department.

Before NamUs, families and investigators had to go through the slow process of checking with medical examiner's offices one by one. As the Smolinski family searched for clues to Billy's fate, they met a maze of federal, state and nonprofit missing person databases that weren't completely public and didn't share information well with each other.

NamUs, the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System, allows one-stop sleuthing for amateurs, families and police. Anyone can enter all the data they have on a missing person, including descriptions, photos, fingerprints, dental records and DNA. Medical examiners can enter the same data on unidentified bodies, and anyone can search the database for potential matches that warrant further investigation.

So far, about 6,200 sets of remains and nearly 2,800 missing people have been entered, said Kevin Lothridge, CEO of the National Forensic Science Technology Center in Largo, Fla., which runs NamUs for the Justice Department.

Detective Jim Shields of the Omaha, Neb., Police Department hadn't heard about NamUs until he saw a presentation at a conference in 2008. He then had a local volunteer associated with NamUs input his data on several missing people.

2006 Tax Refunds Owed To 2,500 South Dakotans

SIoux FALLS (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says refunds totaling nearly $2.2 million are awaiting nearly 2,500 South Dakotans who did not file a federal income tax return for 2006.

To collect the money, those due refunds have until April 15 to file a 2006 return.

The IRS estimates that half of the South Dakotans who could file and claim a refund for tax year 2006 would receive at least $589.

In cases where a return was not filed, the law gives most taxpayers a three-year window of opportunity for claiming a refund. If no return is filed in that time span, the government keeps the money.

Checks for taxpayers seeking a 2006 refund will be held if they have not filed returns for 2007 or 2008.

MIDWEST DIGEST

S.D. Man Indicted On Rape Charges

ELK POINT (AP) — A 36-year-old man from rural Elk Point has been indicted on charges he raped a young girl. Trent Hemmingsen faces two counts of first-degree rape in Union County.

Court documents say he raped the girl, now 7, in his home during the summers of 2008 and 2009. The relationship between Hemmingsen and the girl was not disclosed. Hemmingsen had been held at the Union County jail on $75,000 bond. A jail spokeswoman says she couldn't comment on whether he was still there Sunday.

No number was listed for Hemmingsen. It wasn't immediately known whether he had an attorney.

He's due to be arraigned on Monday. Hemmingsen was arrested after a tip from authorities in Polson, Mont. Police say he may be prosecuted there in another juvenile rape case.

S.D. Native 'Explodes' With NASA

WATERTOWN (AP) — A South Dakota native is helping blow things apart for NASA.

Keith Van Tassel is a project manager of pyrotechnics and explosives safety officer for the space agency.

His department handles explosions like those that separate the fuel tanks from the space shuttle during liftoff, or kick out the parachutes when the shuttle lands.

Van Tassel graduated from Watertown High School in 1974 and now lives in Houston. He returned to South Dakota recently to accept an award from the South Dakota Science Teachers Conference.

S.D. School Funding Case Appealed

PIERRE (AP) — A group of schools that lost a court fight over the state's school funding formula has filed an appeal to the South Dakota Supreme Court.

The South Dakota Coalition of Schools, which filed the lawsuit in 2006, maintains that the state's funding system does not provide an adequate education for all South Dakota students.
