When decorating the new area, Susie chose to keep things simple with clean, crisp lines. The walls in the main area are taupe with one featuring a rag roll texture design.

“You just cut strips of shammy and glue them to your roller to create the effect,” Susie said.

The kitchen features many cabinets, hardwood flooring and a unique corner sink flanked by two windows that give the Bodens a view of the driveway.

“It’s nice to be able to look out there and see who’s coming up the driveway or at the door,” Susie said.

To add character to the decor, Bill and Susie have placed items of sentimental value throughout their home. The built-in display shelf in the living room features Dick and Jane books, a vintage radio, flowers from the couples wedding and a memorial flag from Bill’s father’s funeral.

The home features many pieces of folk art. Bill created the glass pieces that sit on the living room’s built-in shelf (top photo), and the couple purchased the saw painting and hay loft door painting from a regional artist who sold artwork at Tabor’s Czech Days.
