Stewart School To Present Concert Monday

March is Music in our Schools month and Stewart School is celebrating by performing their annual concert. Students in grades 1-3 will be presenting their concert on Monday, March 5, at the Yankton High School theatre. The concert will be held at 7 p.m. The students will be performing "Wild Things" a big zoo musical revue.

The first grade students will begin the program with "Amazon Rock" which includes a groovy dance. They will also entertain you with "Animal Limbo," "The Penguin Polka," and "Going to the Zoo."

The second grade students will be performing "Animal Identity" in which they will sing clues about the identity of an animal and the audience will have to see if they can guess the name of the animal the students described. They will also perform "Never Polka with a Porcupine," "Hippo Hop," and "Listen to the Water." The second graders will conclude their portion of the program by singing "The Ants Go Marching."

The third grade students will finish off the program with more zoo favorites. They will be performing "Raptor Rap," "The Penguin and the Flamingo," "Cool Cats," "If a Tiger Calls," and "Go Ape!" The third graders will include speakers, rappers, dancers, a cool cat, and instrument players as part of their performance.

The concert is directed by Mrs. Lori Leader and accompanied by Mrs. Kathleen West. The public is invited to attend and the concert is free of charge.

Forum On Healthcare Reform, Diabetes Set

A forum on "Healthcare Reform and Diabetes" by Deb Fisher-Clemens, Avera VP of Public Policy, has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, in Avera Physicians Office Pavilion Auditorium. Fisher-Clemens will be presenting via videoconferencing to people with diabetes.

There will be a Monday, March 12, diabetes support group meeting at the Avera Wellness Center from 1-2 p.m. Wellness center staff will assist with showing the equipment. People with diabetes may do FSBS before and after 15 minutes of exercise to see how the exercise affects your blood sugar. This is not a screening.

Community Garden Start-Up Webinar March 7

BROOKINGS — SDSU Extension is hosting a Community Garden Start-up Webinar March 7, running from 7-8 p.m. CST.

Community Gardens are a place to grow food, reconnect with nature and get physical exercise. Community Gardens provide a place for renters without access to land or for homeowners with vards that are too small or too shady to garden.

Is your community interested in starting a community garden? If so, join SDSU Extension field specialists for an introductory Webinar on getting started.

Specialists will discuss action steps on starting a Community Garden — various models, site assessment, resources needed and more. During the Webinar, they will also discuss successful community gardens which have started as a result of the SDSU Extension Horizon's Program, an action-based community development program.

To participate in the March 7 Webinar, visit Participant Link: http://igrow.org/events/.

For more information contact Chris Zdorovtsov, SDSU Extension Community Development Field Specialist at 605-782-3290 or Christina.Zdorovtsov@sdstate.edu.

Blind, Visually Impaired Group To Meet

SHIINE Program To Host Presentation Friday

Senior Health Information and Insurance Education (SHIINE) will host an informational Medicare presentation in Yankton, Friday, March 9, beginning at 11 a.m. The presentation will be at the Yankton Area Senior Center, 303 Whiting Drive, Yankton..

The presentation will include an overview of basic Medicare, the differences between Parts A, B, C, and D, how and when to apply for coverage, covered services, Medigap coverage changes, Medicare Advantage plans, and who may be eligible for extra help with prescription drug costs. The presentation is free and open to the public.

Administered by the South Department of Social Services, SHIINE is a federally-funded program that advocates for, educates and assists consumers with Medicare and related health information, to allow consumers to make timely and informed decisions and access necessary resources. The program is free.

For more information on SHIINE or the Understanding Medicare presentation, contact SHIINE Regional Coordinator Tom Hoy, at 1-800-536-8197 or locally, 333-3314 or visit www.shiine.net.

Bike Rack Won't Hurt Resale Value

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Tom and Ray:

I have a 2007 Subaru Outback. It's the perfect vehicle for driving over hills and curves during winter storms, hauling garden supplies and toting around Theo, my 75-pound Goldendoodle. Here's my dilemma: I enjoy riding my bike with my friends. I am not tall enough to use a bike rack that mounts on top of the car, nor am I coordinated enough to stand on a ladder while hoisting my bike up that high. We have a bike rack that we used on our old Ford Explorer (now deceased) that I could manage well. It sat on the rear trailer hitch and was easy for me to use. I want to have a rear hitch installed on the Subaru for my bike rack, but my husband says it will decrease the value of the car. My fate lies with your decision. What should we do? — Anne

RAY: Go ahead and install the hitch, Anne. TOM: Your husband is worried that when you try to sell the car, potential buyers will see the hitch and assume you were towing a trailer with the car, and they'll conclude that you put lots of extra wear and tear on the car that way and will shy away.

Tom and Ray Magliozzi

RAY: But that's a chance you'll have to take. After all, it's YOUR car now, right? So you should use it to make your life easier. And neither the hitch itself nor the bike rack will harm the car in any way.

TOM: You could remove the hitch when you're ready to sell the car, but when a buyer gets a good mechanic to inspect the car, he'll notice the bolt holes and know you had a hitch on there.

RAY: So I'd opt for absolute honesty. Just tell potential buyers that you never towed anything, you just used the hitch for a bike rack. These bike racks are common enough now that it won't surprise anybody.

Saturday, 3.3.12

TOM: Better yet, leave the bike rack on the car when you sell it, and offer it as an

RAY: And tell your husband he's worrying about nothing. Cheer him up by reminding him that the vicious dog smell is going to be a much greater impediment to selling this car than the hitch ever will be.

Schlientz To Be Featured Presenter At Sacred Heart Mission Event

Yankton will be blessed with a Mission led by Dr. Margarett Schlientz on Šunday through Tuesday, March 4-6. The Mission is scheduled each evening from 7-8 p.m. at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 509 Capital Street,

For one hour each evening all people are welcomed to join the Mission theme: "Repent and Believe in the Gospel." Dr. Schlientz encourages everyone to participate. "The Mission provides an opportunity for deeper holiness for reviewing and renewing."

The term "Missio" is Latin for "to be sent." Schlientz explained, "The Mission helps people identify with what they are called to do. The conversion can bring participants to deepen in prayer their life experiences and increase openness to the graces of God."

While this will be Dr. Schlientz's first visit to Yankton, her trips to South Dakota have been frequent over the past few years. "I provide spiritual direction to priests in the Sioux Falls Diocese," said Schlientz, who through that experience met Father Mark Lichter, the Pastor at Yankton's Sacred Heart Parish.

Accepting Fr. Lichter's invitation to lead the Mission at Sacred Heart Parish, Schlientz says she will strive to help Catholics grow into the holiness of their vocation. She explained, Couples can grow together and build the spirituality of their children.'

sion. "I am responding by presenting the Mission because people want more from their lives. People are hungry to grow. I like to integrate the participants' spirituality into psychology – drawing on emotions, prayer and discernment."

Known for her knowledge, energy and compassion, Schlientz has a unique and enticing way of reaching others. "I want to bring the whole congregation together in a consecrated way for renewal of soul and heart. My goal is to listen to the Holy Spirit and best respond to what the people find important.

A Michigan native, Margarett A. Schlientz, earned a Bachelors of Science in Nursing at Marquette University College of Nursing and Masters of Arts equivalents in Sociology of Religions and Clinical Psychology also at Marquette. She completed a Master of Science in Psychiatric Nursing at the University of Maryland, and a Ph.D. in Psychiatric Nursing at the University of Pittsburgh. In addition, she has a Master of Arts degree in Christian Spirituality from Creighton University, where she serves as the Assistant Director of the Institute of Priestly Formation.

An author, educator, nurse, and Catholic, Dr. Schlientz has related to diverse groups of people through her more than 2,000 workshops presented over the past 45 years. An articulate professional, Schlientz draws from her vast experiences and her extensive education. "I tell stories on people's experiences and the different kinds of things I've encountered. I teach about healing."

Everyone is welcome to "Repent and Believe in the Gospel" by participating all three evenings or whatever portion of the Mission they can attend. Each evening will begin with the Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament and end with Benediction. Preceding the Mission on Monday, March 5, the Sacrament of Reconciliation will be offered for those seeking opportunity for repentance.

Refreshments will be served in the Sacred Heart Parish Community Center with social time following each evening of the

VFC Seeks Members For Youth Council

South Dakota Voices for Children is seeking candidates from across the state for its Youth Advisory Council. These teen volunteers represent the diversity of the South Dakota — urban, rural and reservation communities and public, private and home schooled. Youth advisory council members, who must be entering the 9th, 10th or 11th grade in fall 2012, generally serve through their senior year.

Council members offer insight about young people's viewpoints, assist in developing Voices' policy agenda, and advocate on behalf of children. In addition, they participate in activities to promote positive policy change.

Members of the Youth Advisory Council attend a twoday June retreat in Pierre and come together for three additional quarterly meetings. Travel stipends are provided by South Dakota Voices for Children.

Application forms are available at www.sdvoicesforchildren.org, by emailing office@sdvoicesforchildren.or g or by calling South Dakota Voices for Children at 605 367-9667. Questions may be directed to Betsy Rice, communications specialist, at that number.

Applications must be postmarked or delivered by March 23 to the office of South Dakota Voices for Children, 808 N. West Avenue, Box 2196, Sioux Falls, SD 57101-2196. Typewritten applications may be faxed to 605 335-3836.

The mission of South Dakota Voices for Children is to improve the lives of children through policy and program advocacy.
