NECC, Nebraska Safety Council To Co-Sponsor Workshop

NORFOLK, Neb. — Northeast Community College in Norfolk and the Nebraska Safety Council will co-sponsor another seminar in late March.

The seminar, "Respiratory Protection and Respirator Fit Testing: Train the Trainer," meets Wednesday, March 28, from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. in the Lifelong Learning Center on the Northeast campus in Norfolk.

While the objective of a fit test is face-piece sizing, the primary reason to fit test an individual is to verify that he or she has been trained to wear a respirator and has, in fact, learned how to put the face piece on correctly. If a person does not know how to use the equipment, the respirator will be less effective, regardless of whether or not it is the right size.

To register for this workshop, call the Nebraska Safety Council at (888) 704-7233, Ext. 108, or register online at www.nesafetycouncil.org.

Neb. Gambling Measures Fizzle In Legislature

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A push to loosen gambling restrictions has fizzled this year in the Legislature, despite claims that Nebraska could preserve jobs, generate much-needed revenue for counties and tap into the millions of dollars that are poured into South Dakota and Iowa casinos each year.

Lawmakers have killed a bill this year to let gambling outlets to run more keno games per hour. A legislative panel rejected a constitutional amendment proposal that would have allowed casinos within 60 miles of a border state, unless the border state shared some of its gambling revenue with Nebraska. And a bill that would allow machine bets on past horse races faces an uncertain future as lawmakers mount a filibuster to stall a vote.

Columbus Sen. Paul Schumacher said gambling opponents have pressured lawmakers into defeating many of the proposals at a time when Nebraska could use the revenue. Lawmakers are trying to balance Gov. Dave Heineman's tax-cut proposal with funding for child welfare, Medicaid payments for hospitals and nursing homes, and other state needs.

"The state is bleeding," said Schumacher, who introduced the now-rejected constitutional amendment. Gambling opponents who have resisted the measures "are persistent, while the ordinary people who support it don't have lobbyists out in the rotunda. But this issue is not going away."

Gambling opponents say the economic benefits touted in each bill are overblown and the measures are an attempt to open the door to expanded gambling in Nebraska. They say supporters fail to mention the hidden costs, such as an increase in embezzlement and other crimes related to gambling additions.

"Expanding casinos across the rest of Nebraska will not improve anything and will add serious damage to the economy itself," said Loretta Fairchild, a retired Nebraska Wesleyan University economist. "The benefits seem pretty direct, but the costs are very indirect."
