USD's Mettler Named Summit League Indoor Athlete Of Year

ELMHURST, III. — South Dakota's Jeff Mettler has been named the Summit League men's indoor track Athlete of the Year, according to an announcement by the league office on Friday.

Mettler, the 2013 Indoor Track Athlete of the Year, became the first track and field athlete in South Dakota school history to earn an Indoor Athlete of the Year award and was also the first Coyote to be named one of the indoor championship MVPs.

The Eureka native led his team to its first Summit League Indoor Track and Field title, marking the first league crown for USD in any sport. He won the mile (4:11.18) and the 3,000 meters (8:18.69) at the league championships and finished third in the 5,000 meters (14:40.28). The junior's 3,000-meter time marked a league and DakotaDome record. Mettler tallied a league-high three Athlete of the Week honors and finished the season with league-best times in the 3,000 meters (8:09.82) and 5,000 meters (14:08.74) and ranked third in the league in the mile (4:08.02).

North Dakota State's Deborah John was named the women's track Athlete of the year. Andy Lillejord of NDSU and Sami Spenner of Omaha earned men's and women's field event honors.

USD Women's Swimming & Diving Earns National Honor

VERMILLION — South Dakota women's swimming and diving has received College Swimming Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) Scholar All-American honors for the fall of 2012. The women held a 3.13 team GPA for the semester.

"This is a great honor for our program," said head coach Jason Mahowald. "It is an award that recognizes our hard work in the classroom. I am very proud of our ladies and all that they do in and outside of the pool."

The College Swimming Coaches Association of America presents the Team Scholar All-American award to college and university swimming and diving teams who have achieved a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or hiaher.

style as the Cardinals, but without the same blue-chip personnel. The eighth-seeded Rams, however. are a team unlike many Louisville has seen this year.

Colorado State (26-8) is averaging a little over 40 boards per game – no, that's not a misprint — and Colton Iverson is such a beast that, 27 minutes into Thursday night's game, he singlehandedly had Missouri outrebounded (13-11).

"We have to do a better job of on the glass," Peyton Siva said. "We haven't faced a team like this that rebounds with such tenacity.

The Cardinals know that, though. It's Colorado State's offense that is something of a mysterv.

The Rams use a motion offense much like Notre Dame — the same Notre Dame that beat the Cardinals in a five-overtime classic last month. Granted, Louisville won the next two meetings - handily but they'd had some time to prepare. Pitino and his staff have one day now.

"Pure motion is very difficult,"

Pitino said. "You have to have you don't get a whole lot of teams that.

"You can't choreograph your defense to stop certain options in one day because they run more freelance motion," he said. "So it is more difficult than the team that runs patterned sets and you can prepare for. They are very difficult to prepare for."

What might impress Pitino the most, however, is the Rams' maturity. They have six players back from the team that reached the NCAA tournament last year. Four of their five starters are seniors, and the fifth, Jon Octeus, is a redshirt sophomore.

The Rams appreciate not in awe of the Cardinals.

'We respect our opponent, but we feel like we're one of the best teams in the country and we believe in ourselves," Dorian Green we can beat anybody in the country. We just have to go out there and do it."

Louisville's pressure, which starts with Siva and Smith.
