Tri-State Old Iron Elects Officers For 2015

Tri-State Old Iron Association held their annual election of Officers and Board of Directors in January at their monthly meeting.

Tri-State Old Iron Association is an antique tractor and small engine club formed to help preserve the history and agricultural heritage of the farming industry. Organized in 2005, the club meets the second Monday of each month at 7 p.m. at JoDean's Restaurant in Yankton.

Since this is the 10th anniversary of the organization of this club, Tri-State

Old Iron will be holding their 10 year celebration on Saturday, June 6, at JoDean's Restaurant in Yankton. The club will be displaying their antique tractors and small engines on the outside while smaller displays of the members hobbies, etc. will be displayed in the south room of JoDean's. All are welcome to come and view the many items that will be displayed for the general public. Jack of JoDean's will be providing free hotdogs and a drink at the celebration.

Healthy Yankton Accepting Applications

Healthy Yankton is now accepting applications for two raised garden beds for the 2015 growing season.

The raised beds are 6 feet by 2 1/2 feet and have a working height of 30 inches. The purpose of the raised beds is to provide an opportunity to garden for those not able to utilize the traditional garden beds because of a physical limitation.

Anyone interested in utilizing a raised bed for the 2015 season must complete an application. If more applications are received than available beds, Healthy Yankton will review all applications and a lottery system will be used for the final selection. There is no fee to apply for a raised bed, the fee is collected after the raised beds are assigned.

For more information on the garden, call Angie O'Connor at 668-8590 or email healthyyankton@gmail.com/.

Dealer Should Unstick Stuck Brakes On Car That's Under Warranty

BY RAY MAGLIOZZI
 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Car Talk:

I have a 2009 GMC Envoy with 53,000 easy miles. All recommended services have been done at the appropriate time/mileage. Twice recently, I have experienced what I think is sticking brakes. This has occurred in traffic situations, like when I stop at a light, and lasts about 100 feet, and then releases. I brake with my left foot, which I know is not recommended, but this is a long (over 60 years) habit. I think it could be the anti-lock-brake system working, but it remains "locked" after I remove my left foot and try to accelerate. I have not gone to the dealer yet (it's still under extended warranty). As I stated, this has only recently occurred. I'm guessing it's brakes and not transmission or transfer. Any thoughts? Thanks.

— Howard

It could be an ABS problem. It could be a sticking caliper. It could be a transmission issue — if there's a delay in getting power to the wheels, that can feel like a brake problem. But my first guess would be a faulty power-brake booster.

The booster takes the force of your foot on the brake pedal and "boosts" or multiplies it, sending much more force to the brakes themselves.

That's the "power" in "power brakes." It's what allows you to use a modest amount of force with one haven't-been-to-the-gym-in-30-years foot, and stop a 5,000-pound rolling hulk of steel (or steel and rust, as was always the case with my brother). But if the booster is getting stuck in its boost mode, it will continue to apply force to the brakes, even after you release the pedal.

And it's not unusual for a faulty booster to stay on after a full stop, and then release itself. So the symptoms make sense.

The booster is easy to test. If you want to do it yourself, have your dealer show you where the vacuum hose goes into the booster. Then, the next time your brakes lock up, pull over and disconnect that vacuum hose. If the brakes free up, bingo — you need a booster.

But it could be a master cylinder, too. Or any of those other things I mentioned. So since you're under warranty, why not let your dealer crawl under the truck and get his shirt dirty? You paid for the extended warranty. Go ahead and use it.

Keep your car on the road and out of the repair shop by ordering Click and Clack's pamphlet "Ten Ways You May Be Ruining Your Car Without Even Knowing It!" Send $4.75 (check or money order) to Ruin, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Lincoln School Has 'Ready To Read' Event

SUBMITTED PHOTOS

Kindergartners in Mrs. Loecker's class at Lincoln School celebrated Read Across America Week with a "Ready to Read" event on March 4th. Parents and teachers were invited to come listen to the students read some of their favorite books and walked away with an autograph from each little reader. Dr. Kindle took part in the fun too by stopping by to read a few Dr. Seuss classics to the class and to listen to the students read.

AAA Offers Free 'Topsy Tows' Over St. Patrick's Day

SIoux FALLS — AAA South Dakota is offering free Topsy Tows to motorists who do a wee bit too much partying over St. Patrick's Day and feel unfit to drive. The auto club will also give that motorist's car a free ride home.

The community service is open to everyone, AAA member or not, and runs from 6 p.m. Monday, March 16, until 4 a.m. Wednesday, March 18, in Sioux Falls, Rapid City, Mitchell and Yankton.

"Distracted driving gets a lot of headlines these days, and rightfully so," said Marilyn Buskohl, spokeswoman for AAA South Dakota. "But alcohol still plays a role in up to 40 percent of all crashes over holidays such as St. Patty's Day. It's our sincere hope inebriated drivers run us ragged picking them up and giving them and their vehicles safe rides home.

To call for Topsy Tow, dial 800-AAA-HELP (222-4357) and ask for Topsy Tow. AAA will provide a free tow and ride, no questions asked, within a 15-mile radius from point of pickup, for the vehicle and up to two people.

There is one catch: the only place AAA will take you and your car is home.

This is the sixth year AAA has offered Topsy Tow over St. Patrick's Day in South Dakota. Not all AAA clubs in the country participate in the program. If you're outside South Dakota, call 800-AAA-HELP and ask if they offer free Topsy Tow rides.

THANK YOU

The families of Warren Hatch have been deeply touched by the outpouring of sympathy in many ways through food, cards and memorials to the Optimists and Trinity Lutheran Organ fund, sent in Warren's memory.

Thank you to the PEO Chapter K, who brought dinner, and the ladies of Trinity Lutheran, who served lunch after the funeral. Thanks to the Wakonda Gingrich Dixon American Legion of military rites. Singers Mike McDonald and Jan Schiferl and organist Marilyn Nyberg added much to the service at Trinity Lutheran. We thank Pastors Wildermuth and Kwen Sanderson for their visits and Kwen for his kind words at the funeral.

We also express gratitude to Dr. Kudera and the Yankton Care Center for their good care after Warren fell and broke his hip. He struggled to get well, but it was not to be. We know he is in a better place. If many more thank you's have been forgotten, we thank you. Hospice Care was a great help for all of us.

Sincerely, The Hatches
