Tax

Laurenz said in a news release issued statewide Wednesday. "For example, if a customer with a May renewal date were to visit a County Treasurer's Office or a DMV self-service electronic terminal on or before March 31, they would pay the current fee."

State law doesn't specifically address when the license-plate fee increases should be charged.

But state law does allow vehicle registrations to be renewed up to 90 days before they are due. The due date is the final date of the month for renewal.

So May renewals can get the existing prices before April 1. June renewals fall outside the 90-day window, so they will be subject to the April 1 increases.

South Dakota uses an alphabetical system and doesn't schedule registration renewals for April or October when property taxes are paid at county treasurer offices.

In the past, county treasurers allowed vehicle owners to renew registrations early at the existing prices rather than the increases prices, if the renewals came within that 90-day window.

Gerlach said Thursday in an interview that past practice now will be followed this time too.

He said May renewals can be done before April 1 at the existing prices. If the renewals are done on April 1 or after, the 20 percent increases will apply.

"It wasn't a change of policy. It was a clarification," Gerlach said.

The department went through a much more significant challenge in 2008 when then-Revenue Secretary Paul Kinsman didn't test a new statewide computer system before it was put into use for registrations.

The new system operated slowly and initially couldn't perform some functions, leading to long lines of motorists at treasurer offices.

A team of state technology specialists worked nearly round the clock for many days that summer to eventually correct the system.

This time, the difficulties stem from a small window of time — approximately two weeks — provided by the Legislature.

In the email Monday, the DMV director told county treasurer staff that the fee increases meant notices for May renewals wouldn't go out to vehicle owners until mid-April at the earliest.

The excise tax on vehicle purchases also increases on April 1 to 4 percent from the current 3 percent.

People who make purchases before April 1 will pay the 3 percent rate even if they report the purchase to the treasurer on or after April 1, according to the email.

The Legislature made almost all of the tax changes in the legislation effective April 1 rather than the usual date of July 1 for new laws.

An attempt by Rep. Tom Brunner, R-Nisland, to delay the license-plate and excise tax increases was rejected Friday evening by the House of Representatives during the final passage of the package, SB 1.

County treasurers also have been advised to get accurate counts of wheels on vehicles because the new law allows wheel taxes to be applied by counties to up to 12 wheels per vehicle.

The wheel tax, which is optional, also was increased to $5 per wheel from the existing $4.

"No one saw the emergency clause coming, so there is a lot to do in a short period of time. We ask your patience as we work on everything that needs to be done," Laurenz said in the Monday email.
