Judge Upholds Vote For Secret Ballot Measure

PIERRE (AP) — A judge has denied a request from the AFL-CIO to have a constitutional amendment on voting by secret ballot excluded from the November general election. Circuit Judge John Brown also upheld the South Dakota attorney general's official ballot explanation of the measure, which would guarantee the right to vote by secret ballot in political elections and efforts to organize labor unions.

Settlement In S.D. Voting Rights Lawsuit

SIOUX FALLS (AP) — A settlement has been reached in a lawsuit two Pine Ridge women filed against South Dakota officials after they were barred from voting in 2008. They said they were illegally removed from the voter registration list after being convicted of a felony and given probation but no prison time. State law removes from voter registration lists any person convicted of a felony and sentenced to prison. The settlement sets out procedures, training and public education for officials in the secretary of state's office to prevent unlawful voter disenfranchisement. The state acknowledges no wrongdoing in the settlement.

S.D. Gets $11.8M For Insurance System

SIOUX FALLS (AP) — Sen. Tim Johnson says the federal Labor Department has approved nearly $11.8 million to help South Dakota's unemployment insurance system. The South Dakota Democrat says the state qualified for the remaining two-thirds of its share of federal stimulus money by enabling certain part-time workers to be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits and by providing additional weeks of benefits to people enrolled in training or education programs. State Labor Secretary Hilda Solis says the economic recovery is gaining momentum, but many workers still face a challenging job market.

DECISION 2010 – S.D. U.S. HOUSE

GOP Hopefuls Agree On Issues

BY CHET BROKAW
Associated Press Writer

PIERRE — The three candidates seeking the Republican nomination to run for South Dakota's lone seat in the U.S. House agreed on most issues during a televised forum Wednesday night, but they disagreed on who has the best chance of forcing changes in national policies. South Dakota Secretary of State Chris Nelson, state Rep. Blake Curd of Sioux Falls and state Rep. Kristi Noem of Castlewood answered questions for about an hour during a forum broadcast by KELO-TV of Sioux Falls. Republican voters will decide in the June 8 primary which candidate represents the party against Democratic Rep. Stephanie Herseth Sandlin in November. None of the Republicans in-gled over Herseth Sandlin for specific criticism, but they instead denounced President Barack Obama and Congress for excessive spending that has increased the national debt, passing the health care reform law and allowing government to interfere in private business. Registered GOP voters outnumber registered Democrats in South Dakota, and Republicans are hoping to capture the seat from Herseth Sandlin, who is seeking a fourth term. All three GOP candidates said they would work to repeal health care reform — a measure Herseth Sandlin voted against, saying it was too expensive and would not do enough to contain costs or lower insurance rates. The GOP candidates also said they would cut federal spending and would support keeping U.S. troops in Iraq and Afghanistan until terrorists are defeated and those countries can run themselves. The Republican contenders avoided criticizing each other. Their sharpest differences came when each was asked why he or she would do the best job in office. Nelson said he has demonstrated that he is a fiscal conservative during his two terms as secretary of state. He said his office is one of only two state agencies that has reduced staff since 2003, and he said he understands business because he still runs cattle on his family farm. "Over the last seven years as your secretary of state, you've had an opportunity to see how I operate as a state leader. You understand I operate with integrity," Nelson said. Noem said she has 20 years experience running the family farm, has managed several small businesses and is raising her family in South Dakota. She noted her colleagues selected her as assistant majority leader in the South Dakota House in just her second term in the Legislature. "I will tell you I am South Dakota. I think South Dakota is best represented when it's represented by somebody who is just like them," Noem said. Curd said he has experience running small businesses, working as a surgeon and spending 13 years in the U.S. Air Force. He said he wants to go to Congress and help change the nation's policies, then return to South Dakota to resume his medical practice. "I'm not a career politician, and I will not allow my time in government to become a career," Curd said.
