Joplin

possible human remains, prompting eight searchers to dig frantically, but they came away with nothing. Burns was weary but composed. Her daughter — the boy's aunt — sobbed next to her. "We've already checked out the morgue," Burns said. "I've called 911 a million times. I've done everything I can do. He was so light and little. He could be anywhere." Also Tuesday, the National Weather Service announced that the twister that crippled Joplin was an EF-5, the strongest rating assigned to tornadoes, with winds of more than 200 mph. Scientists said it appeared to be a rare "multivortex" tornado, with two or more small and intense centers of rotation orbiting the larger funnel. It was the deadliest single twister since the weather service began keeping official records in 1950 and the eighth-deadliest in U.S. history. Another top job was testing the city's tornado sirens to make sure they were operable ahead of another round of potentially violent weather starting Tuesday evening and expected to last into Wednesday in some places. Emergency officials warned jittery residents well in advance of the test. David Imy, a meteorologist at the federal government's Storm Prediction Center in Norman, Okla., said conditions were ripe for severe thunderstorms, including tornadoes, in parts of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kentucky and Tennessee, as well as nearly all of Oklahoma. Throughout the search efforts, new reports emerged of clusters of victims: 11 people dead in a nursing home, three bodies found in an Elks Lodge. The tornado tossed three vehicles into the Greenbriar nursing home and left nothing more than a 10-foot section of an interior wall standing. On the night of the twister, the Joplin Elks lodge had been scheduled to host its weekly bingo game. "If that had been two hours later, there could have been 40 or 50 people in there," said Chris Moreno, a hospital lab technician coordinating an outdoor triage center. Jasper County Emergency Director Keith Stammer said the scope of the destruction was making it difficult to account for people affected by the storm. He suggested that many survivors, with nowhere to go, left Joplin for Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma or other parts of Missouri. "There's a lot of confusion, a lot of inability for folks to communicate," he said. People in the Joplin area and beyond have turned to online social networks to find family members missing since the tornado or to learn about the plight of survivors. Multiple Facebook pages created since the tornado are filled with requests for information about specific people who have not been heard from since Sunday. Some pages include photos of the missing. Other posts share the news about Joplin residents who are alive and well. Several social-networking efforts specifically focus on finding information about Will Norton, a teenager who was reportedly sucked out of the sunroof of a car on his way home from a graduation ceremony. More than 10,000 people have supported the "Help Find Will Norton" community page on Facebook, and Twitter users were tweeting heavily about the missing teen.

Vermillion To Hold 'One World, Many Stories'

VERMILLION — The Vermillion Public Library is preparing for a fun-filled Summer Reading Program. The theme for Beginning and Intermediate readers is "One World, Many Stories." The program will kick off on Thursday, June 2, with a Bon Voyage Party/Open House between 1:30-3:30 p.m. Preschool through elementary students are invited to register, enjoy treats, decorate an activity suitcase, participate in a scavenger hunt, and pick up a program bag. Activities begin Monday, June 6, with crafts, movies, performers and reading clubs planned for June and July. For each 100 minutes read, participating young readers will earn Book Bucks that can be redeemed in our World Market incentive store, which will open at the conclusion of the program in August. In addition to the Book Buck, readers will receive a token that can be used in a gumball machine to get a small prize or donated to UNICEF. Library staff and private donations will provide funds to send to UNICEF. In keeping with this year's theme, the program will be focusing on a different continent each week. Readers will receive a passport. If they visit the library each week, their names will be entered in a Grand Prize drawing. All details and calendars will be in the program bags. Information is also available on the library's website or by calling the library at 605-677-7060. Registration for the Summer Reading Program is online this year. Go to http://vpl.sdln.net to find the link. You may also register at the kickoff party on June 2 or by calling or stopping in at the library. Story times are also available for toddlers and preschoolers during June and July. Toddler story times for 1- to 3-year-olds are offered on Tuesdays and preschool story times for 3- to 5-year-olds are Monday evenings, Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Children must be registered for story times and this can be done by calling or stopping in the library. The Advanced Readers' theme is "You Are Here" and the kickoff party for students in grades 6-12 will be at 5:30 p.m. on June 2. There will be pop and pizza, and you can get registered, get a program bag and enjoy some activities. There are many special programs planned for young adults and they can earn prizes and reward parties, too. Calendars and details will be in the program bags and on the library website. Adults are invited to participate in the Novel Destinations program. Read five books of your choice, record the titles and authors, and bring your list in to be entered in the prize drawing at the end of July. To financially support this program, raffle tickets are on sale at the library throughout June and July. The prize is an Apple iPad which was donated by Library Board member Janet Hoff and Dakota PC Warehouse. Tickets may be purchased at the Circulation Desk. The winner will be chosen at 3:30 p.m. on Friday, July 29, and you need not be present to win. The Youth Services Department at the Vermillion Public Library receives help from local businesses, organizations and individuals who have donated cash and prizes to make the Summer Reading Program possible. If you would like to contribute, contact Joyce Moore, Youth Services Librarian, at 677-7060.

Yankton School District Summer Food Service Program To Begin

Parents, would you like to see your children get a balanced lunch during the summer week days? Check out the Yankton School District Summer Food Service Program. The program will be serving lunch at Webster School from June 1-July 29. The Webster School program is available to all students through age 18 years old at no cost. Students do not have to enroll or qualify for a free or reduced meal benefits to qualify. All students are eligible to receive the meal free regardless of race, color, national origin, age, gender, religion or disability. The child does not have to be enrolled at Webster School to come eat. Any child that wants to participate only needs to come to Webster School Gym. Webster School is located at 317 E. 7th St. A lunch will consist of meat entree, which is different every day. If a child does not like the main entree, there are usually two other choices. A choice of a variety of fruits and vegetables, a bread item and milk. Children do not need an adult to accompany them. If an adult wishes to come and eat, the cost of the meal for an adult is $2.75. Scheduled serving time is 11:15 a.m. until 12:45 p.m. If you have any questions regarding the Summer Food Service Program, call Sandi Kramer, Child Nutrition Supervisor at 665-8379.

Healing Touch Class To Be Offered At Avera June 3-4

Avera Sacred Heart Pastoral Care and Avera Education & Staffing Solutions are offering Healing Touch Level 1 on Friday and Saturday, June 3-4. The class will be held in the Avera Benedictine Center Conference Room on the Avera Sacred Heart Campus from 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m. The Healing Touch Certificate Program is a multi-level course of study in energy-based therapy and is complementary to health care. Level 1 allows persons with varying backgrounds to enter, acknowledge their previous learning and to further develop concepts and skills in energy-based therapy.

Healing Touch is a complementary energy therapy that supports the body's natural healing process. Through didactic and experiential training, practitioners learn heart-centered ways to support and facilitate physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual health. Healing Touch International provides accredited continuing education for nurses and other modalities, and is endorsed by the American Holistic Nurses' Association. For more information or to register, contact Avera Education & Staffing Solutions at 605-668-8475 or visit www.averasolutions.org.
