OTHER EVENTS Augie Men Sign Iowa Transfer

SIOUX FALLS - Augustana College head men's basketball coach Tom Billeter announced Monday Branden Stubbs will transfer from the University of Iowa to Augustana for the 2012-13 season.

A native of Pleasant Hill, Iowa, Stubbs played in 16 games in two seasons at lowa, scoring 26 points in 54 minutes of action. The 6-foot-2, 175-pound guard will have two years of eligibility remaining.

"Branden is a very smart player who has spent the last two years playing and practicing against some outstanding competition." Billeter said. "He has been well coached and brings an overall toughness along with experience to a position we did not have a great deal of depth at."

2 NDSU Players Getting Shot At NFL

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Two standout football players at North Dakota State University are getting a shot at the NFL, even though they didn't get drafted last week.

The school says former Bison tight end Matt Veldman has signed a free agent contract with the Jacksonville Jaguars. Former running back D.J. McNorton has been invited to the Washington Redskins minicamp for rookies and undrafted free agents.

McNorton is from Channelview, Texas. He finished his for 331 yards and three touchdowns last season.

NDSU career sixth on the team's all-time rushing list with just under 3,000 yards.

Veldman is from Becker, Minn. He started all 15 games during NDSU's run to the NCAA Football Championship Subdivision title, catching a career-high 26 passes

Nebraska RB Aaron Green Will Transfer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska coach Bo Pelini has given running back Aaron Green permission to transfer. Green appeared in 12 games as a freshman last season, rushing 24 times for 105 yards and two touchdowns and catching one pass for 25 yards and a TD. The San Antonio native appeared to be the No. 3 running back out of spring ball, behind Rex Burkhead and Ameer Abdullah

The team announced the move Monday. Tony Green told the Lincoln Journal Star that his son wants to transfer to a school closer to home, such as Oklahoma, Houston, Baylor, Texas Tech or TCU.

Andrew Green, Aaron's brother, is in line to be a starting cornerback for the Cornhuskers this fall.

A projected fourth or fifth round selection, the 6-foot-5, 314pound former Coyote instead watched the hours tick by with his friends and family at their Rosemount, Minn. home.

Though he and his agent, Joel Segal, had been in contact with a number of teams leading up to the draft, Compton said Washington was not on his radar.

"I didn't really talk to Washington much before, so I wasn't really expecting it," he said. "When we saw they were on the clock, a Virginia number came up (on his phone), so I figured this would be Joking that the crowd around the television blocked his view of the official draft announcement, Compton instead suddenly found himself on the phone with Redskins head coach Mike Shanahan.

"He just said, 'We really like you, you'll be a great fit, we're going to take you here," Compton said. "Then I talked to their offensive line coach, and went down the line with the staff. "Once it happened, the whole place kind of erupted." Compton may shift to right tackle for the Redskins, who ranked 25th in the NFL in rushing yards per game last season and used 10 different offensive line combinations. Washington drafted two quarterbacks over the weekend — Heisman Trophy winner Robert Griffin III (Baylor) and Kirk Cousins (Michigan

Griffin III — "RG3" — was one of those people who mentioned Compton's name on Twitter over the weekend. Now, the former Coyote will get a chance to block for the dual-threat quarterback.

"It'll be exciting to play with him," Compton said. "He's definitely a supportive guy; obviously an awesome quarterback. I'm just anxious to get out there and see what happens."
