Desperate

From Page

1. New neighbor Betty Applewhite (Alfre Woodard) keeps her mentally challenged son (and murder suspect) chained up in the basement. It's creepy and offensive and a waste of Woodard's talent.

2. Bree fakes being pregnant to cover up the fact that her daughter, Danielle, has been knocked up and banished to a convent. The plan worked ... for a while.

3. After vying for (and losing) the love of Mike Delfino (James Denton), Katherine Mayfair (Dana Delany) goes crazy, and then goes lesbian when seduced by a former stripper.

4. To make ends meet, Susan takes a job with a soft-core porn website, doing housework in her undies. Totally out of character. Totally ridiculous.

5. Turns out that Juanita really isn't Gaby's biological child, thanks to a switcheroo at the hospital. A timeworn soap trope made more annoying by the fact that it really goes nowhere.

NO PAIN, NO GAIN

All the show's characters dealt with their share of hardship. But perhaps none was put through the wringer more than Mike Delfino.

In addition to being thrust into a number of fistfights, Mike was framed for murder, did some jail time, suffered through a hit-andrun accident, spent six months in a coma, became addicted to painkillers, did a stint in rehab, went through a divorce and was forced to remove his shirt a number of times.

It seems only fitting, then, that poor Mike would meet a horrific end. After putting the beat-down on a loan shark, he was killed in a drive-by shooting.

And, now, a moment of silence for the friendly neighborhood plumber.

Yes, it was awfully zany, but "Desperate Housewives" could also occasionally pack an unexpected emotional wallop. Scenes in which Gaby confronted her abuser and Susan spoke at Mike's funeral left lasting impressions.

But perhaps no moment touched us more than when Tom informed a pregnant Lynette in the hospital that one of their unborn twins had died. Huffman dug extra deep for this one, and the look of anguish on her face was heartbreaking.

That explains why she was always our favorite of the bunch.

LIKE A GOOD NEIGHBOR ...

The show, of course, was about more than the core gal pals and their arm candy. They got plenty of support from other residents, including the revolving "fifth wife." A few of our standouts and their contributions.

 Mrs. McCluskey (Kathryn Joosten), the golden girl. What she added: Plenty of senior sass and spunk. Always good for raising a ruckus.
 Bob (Tuc Watkins) and Lee

(Kevin Rahm), the gay guys. What they added: Two engaging characters who weren't prone to stereotypes and self-loathing.

• Katherine Mayfair (Dana Delany), the ice princess. What she added: A savvy domestic diva and worthy rival for Bree.

• Renee Perry (Vanessa Williams), Lynette's old college friend. What she added: You can never have too much snark.

BY THE NUMBERS

Sometimes words don't suffice. You do the math:

5: Years skipped ahead in the Season 5 flash-forward.
6: Networks passed on the

6: Networks passed on the pilot script before ABC bought it. 15: Emmy nominations for Season 1 (Won six). 180: Episodes produced over the show's eight seasons.

30.62 million: Viewers watched the Season 1 finale.

THAT'S A WRAP — REALLY

Don't expect the women of Wisteria Lane to go the "Sex and the City" route and head to the big screen. Cherry says there are absolutely no plans for a movie.

absolutely no plans for a movie.

"I think 'Sex and the City' only did something like 69 episodes. So the advantage for them was that they hadn't really plumbed the depths of those characters," he told TV critics at a farewell news conference. "(But) after eight years, boy, I think we're done, and I'm happy about it. ... I'm just never sending these gals to Dubai."
